DAVEY HURLS NEW DEFY AT PENSION BODY

Charge of 'Dirty Politics' Renewed by Governor in Fresh Blast at U. S.

'CHECKS WILL GO OUT'

Letter to Board's Chairman Says Grants Will Be OK'd Before Election.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Gov. Martin L Davey reiterated today his charge that the Federal Social Security board was playing "dirty politics" in withholding federal grants to 110,000 Ohio old age pensioners and predicted the grants would be resumed before the November election.

In a letter to A. J. Altmeyer, chairman of the social security board, the governor predicted federal aid would be forthcoming before Oct. 25, in order that old age pension checks can go out before the Nov. 8 election.

'Assurance Given.'

He charged that Altmeyer already had given that assurance to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, "because he has been busy making the bookkeeping entries for the regular amounts, and will start writing the checks immediately, in spite of your public announcement of the withdrawal of federal funds."

The governor's letter followed the filing yesterday in the supreme court of a suit to compel the governor and other old age pension officials to comply with state laws in order that the federal government's share of grants may be resumed, and Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy's announcement that he would not defend the governor in action.

Auditor Ferguson announced yesterday that he and his office manager would go to Washington late today for a conference with the social security board on Friday in an effort to obtain restoration of federal grants.

Work Underway.

Ferguson admitted that he was going ahead with bookkeeping to make the regular October payments on the same average basis of $23 as in the past, in "hope" the federal funds would be restored. He said more than 30,000 entries already had been made at the old rate.

The governor's letter answered Altmeyer's of Sept. 29 in which it was stated that unless federal regulations were complied with by Oct. 25, federal funds would be withheld. Federal allotments are made quarterly. The current al-

Yankees Cocky As They Leave Train For Series Opener

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO—The New York Yankees, as confident and cocksure a ball club as ever stepped off a train into enemy territory, arrived in Chicago ahead of time today, hurried away to their northside hotel and indicated they were ready to take the Chicago Cubs apart in the world series opening at Wrigley field tomorrow.

To a man, the American league champions made it plain that they decidedly were not worried over the outcome of their approaching skirmish with Gabby Hartnett's scrappy outfit.

"Just watch us go," grinned Outfielder Jake Powell as he and his mates pushed their way through several hundred fans.

Manager Joe McCarthy, busy shepherding his players toward the Edgewater Beach hotel, declined to comment on who his starting pitcher would be for the opener, but there was a strong feeling that Lefty Gomez would draw the curtain-raising assignment.

FINE SUSPENDED

Woman in School Bus Mishap Escapes Penalty.

Mrs. Walter F. Howell, Mansfield, driver of an automobile which struck and seriously injured two small boys near the city Sept. 8, was fined $25 by Judge C. H. Huston late yesterday when she entered a nolle contender plea to an indictment for passing a school bus. The fine was suspended.

The plea, which does not directly admit guilt, but admits that events occurred as charged in the indictment, permits the court to treat it as a guilty plea. Mrs. Howell was represened in court by Atty. Van C. Cook.

A second indictment for reckless driving, returned against Mrs. Howell last week by the county grand jury, probably will not be heard, court attaches said.

Lester Baker, 8, and his brother, Paul, 6, who were struck by Mrs. Howell's car as they crossed Millsborough road in front of their home, are still in Mansfield General hospital. They were reported improving rapidly from the effects of their injuries.

Help Make U. S. Better, New Citizens Urged At Reception

Praise for foreign-born residents who have adopted America as their home and met the requirements of citizenship was the keynote of a reception for 33 new citizens last night at the American Legion home.

The persons who received their naturalization papers last night from Fred R. Zellner, county clerk of courts, were members of a citizenship class approved last week by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston who was one of the speakers at the reception. Two members of the class of 35 were absent.

"I respect people who say 'I love America' and want to become citizens," Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church, asserted. "They are not spongers; they are willing to go to the trouble to learn about our country and they don't make their money here and take it back to their native land," he added.

Rev. Swoyer urged the new citizens to vote and to "take a hand in the making of the best government in the history of the world."

Emphasizing the difference between the dictatorships of Europe and the freedom of America, Judge Huston criticized attempt of foreign-born citizens to change our form of government other than according to the methods set forth in the constitution.

New Sign of Times---Hitler In Sudetenland

With the edges of Czechoslovakia being nibbled away by German troops behind Adolf Hitler, this picture significantly shows Sudetens placing the sign of the Swastika over a Czech emblem on a tax office at Breitenfurt

Standing in his automobile to acknowledge salutes, Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany is shown as he rode across the border yesterday (note marker at upper right) into Sudetenland at Wildenau, beginning a triumphant military procession through the Sudeten area "Never will this land be torn from the reich," he said. This picture was radioed from Berlin to New York.

Charges War Scare Created By British Propaganda to Save 'Premier's Face'

Irwin In Talks Here Says Czech 'Betrayal' Was Planned Last Year.

There has been no danger of war in Europe during the past two weeks, but only a war scare created by Premier Chamberlain's propagandists . . . the "betrayal" of Czechoslovakia had been deliberately planned 10 months ago. Thus did Spencer Irwin, Cleveland editor, analyze the momentous events of the past week in Europe in two talks here yesterday.

Irwin, associate editor and editorial writer on international affairs for the Cleveland Plain Dealer, addressed 250 women in the afternoon at Westbrook Country club when his appearance was sponsored by eight study clubs, the Conversational, Cosmopolitan, Journey, Sappho, Tourists, Round Table, Travelers and Victorian clubs. Approximately 200 heard him last night at Delano Lodge hall under the auspices of that organization.

Irwin told his audience that the dismembering of Czechoslovakia was planned last November when Lord Halifax went to Berlin to confer with Hitler, that the plans were furthered and made certain when Great Britain entered the military alliance with France in April, and were completed when Lord Runciman went to Prague ostensibly to confer with the Czechs on their problem, but in reality ignoring them and conferring only with the Sudeten Henleinists.

He charged Great Britain not only with breaking its word to Czechoslovakia and carving it up

How Irwin Sees European Crisis

"Chamberlain is the kind of a pacifist that will permit Hitler to conquer the world."

"By abandoning Czechoslovakia after promising to protect her, Great Britain and France prove that they are no whit different than the dictatorships of Europe."

"Democracy has ceased to exist in Europe as an instrument of international policy."

"Not only did Great Britain's leaders make arrangements as early as last November for the betrayal of Czechoslovakia, but the Anchluss of Austria was also planned at that time."

* * *

"The so-called German Sudetens in Czechoslovakia are not Germans and never were Germans. They were Austrians by birth and tradition. The Sudeten territory never was any part of Germany When the Sudetens first considered a plebiscite, it was not to vote on whether they should be incorporated as Nazi Germans, but as Austrians. It was Hitler's high-powered propagandists that marked the Sudetens as Germans."

* * *

"The democracies of Europe are doomed. They have no where to turn for a helping hand. Their only alternative is a series of social revolutions in the future."

BANK CLEARINGS REFLECT GAINS

September Figure Shows Increase For First Time In Months.

Showing a gain for the first time in several months, Mansfield bank clearings in September moved up to $6,040,452, indicating a revival of business activity in the city, clearing house figures showed today.

Clearings for the month were $8,298 above August figures but were still far below the $7,621,192 handled by the city's four banks in September last year, according to H. A. McElhaney, secretary of the clearing house association.

Total clearings to Oct. 1 were $54,643,828 as compared with $78,551,559 to the same time last year.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Lacking sufficient time and funds with which to set up an adequate policing system, the administration will inaugurate the operation of the wage-and-hour law Oct. 24 by placing American industry on an honor system.

"We are going to appeal to all business engaged in interstate commerce to submit to the law voluntarily," Administrator Elmer F. Andrews said today.

He said the reports he has received from various industries are "encouraging" and that he is confident that all industries engaged in interstate commerce will come under the law "without having a club over them"

NLRB EXAMINER OPENS HEARING

Union Airs Charges Against Ideal Electric Company at Sessions Here.

Hearing of charges of unfair labor practices against the Ideal Electric and Manufacturing company, Mansfield, before Examiner Webster Powell of the National Labor Relations board was under way today at the Richland county courthouse.

Filed Sept 14 on a complaint by Local 705, United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, a CIO offiliate, the charges accuse the Mansfield firm of "restraining and coercing employes" because of union activities and "refusing to nominate a responsible man with whom the union might confer on labor grievances."

The charges contend that Oscar B. Killinger and Roy A. Conn, employes of the firm, were laid off last winter because of their union organization activities. Killinger was reinstated a month later, but the company refused to take Conn back on the payroll, the union's charges assert.

Officials of the defendant company, represented by Attys. Thomas F. Veach and Earl W. LeFever, of Cleveland, contend that slack business conditions were responsible for a drop in employment at their plant and temporary dismissal of Killinger and Conn.

The hearing, which is expected to continue most of the week, is the second of its kind ever conducted in the county and the first in which a union seeks certification as the sole collective bar-

'BUDDY' ROGERS, AID IMPROVING

Mother and Mary Pickford Stay At Band Leader's Bedside.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—At the bedside of Charles "Buddy" Rogers in University hospital today was the orchestra leader's mother, Mrs. D. H. Rogers, and his wife, Mary Pickford. Mrs. Rogers flew here from her home in Olathe, Kan., upon learning that her son injured his right arm in an auto accident south of Delaware, O. Miss Pickford had arrived earlier from New York by plane.

Hospital attaches reported the condition of both Rogers and a companion, Ben Feaman, 30, Brooklyn, N. Y., as good. Their injuries were minor.

'Rustlers' Cart Away 150 Sheep

MARYSVILLE —(INS)— Sheriff Homer S Roosa ordered a more rigid patrol of Union county highways and back roads today as reports of increased activity by stock rustlers came in.

Roosa said that the theft of more than 150 sheep and several hundred chickens has been reported during the past three weeks. At the same time deputies were dispatched to the various stock barns throughout the state to check records of recent purchases.

WESTINGHOUSE GOES ON 5-DAY WEEK SCHEDULE

2,100 Employes Given Extra Day as Business Picks Up; Plans No Additions.

The Mansfield plant of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company today had increased plant operations to five days a week and will continue to operate on that schedule "as long as business warrants," company officials said today.

As a result of the increase, 2,168 employes now at work will be given an extra day of employment each week, although present business conditions do not warrant employment of additional persons, officials said.

The change in schedule amounts to an increase of about 25 per cent in work hours per week and follows a similar increase made a month ago when the company stepped up operations from three to four days a week.

Second Gain In Month.

The four-day schedule was instituted early in September after the company had been operating only three days a week since last April due to the general trend in business.

Officials explained that probably the largest contributing factor for the present spurt was the normal increase necessary for Christmas business coupled with a slight rise in general business.

Another contributing factor was said to be a second order for 25,000 electric irons received from the Consolidated Edison company of New York.

Meanwhile a dispatch from Pittsburgh said that A. W. Robertson, chairman of the board of Westinghouse, pointed out in a special report to stockholders and employes today that the company had a total income of $1,261,313,000 in the nine years from 1929 to 1937.

The statement showed that $589,091,000 was paid to employes in wages and salaries

Materials, supplies, fuel, transportation and other expenses took $491,112,000.

Japan Takes Issue With Plan to Impose Sanctions.

TOKYO —(INS)— Japan took sharp issue today with the decision of the League of Nations that member states might individually apply sanctions against Nippon for her military campaign in China.

In a statement censuring the action of the league, the foreign office here declared.

"Japan will find it difficult to maintain the policy of cooperation she has hitherto pursued toward the League.

"Should any country resort to measures of sanctions against Japan in accordance with the decision of the League council, our government will be ready to adopt counter-measures."

Hiker Pulls Motorist From Burning Car at Loudonville

LOUDONVILLE — Edmund D. Caddington, salesman from Cleveland Heights, who is in the Kinney-Smith hospital at Wooster today, seriously injured as the result of an auto accident near here last night, will owe his life, if he recovers, to an unknown hitchhiker whom he picked up along the road

Caddington, a representative of the Sedlack Machine company of Cleveland, was unconscious and trapped in his car when it burst into flames after having turned over several times. The driver failed to negotiate a turn near Lovett's Corners and struck a guard rail

The hitch-hiker was thrown clear of the car as it rolled over and when the car burst into flames he dragged the unconscious Caddington from it, taking him to the embankment near by, and then returned to the car for Caddington's baggage.

The injured man was taken to Wooster by ambulance and had not regained consciousness this morning according to state patrol officers. He has a possible skull fracture and other severe injuries, officers said.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE PLAN NEGOTIATIONS

Powers Seeking to Stabilize Peace; France Sends Envoy to Italy in First Step.

CONFIDENCE DEMANDED

British Cabinet, Plagued With Charge of 'Sell Out,' Asks Vote of Support.

(Copyright, 1938, by United Press)

The governments of Great Britain and France today sought parliamentary consent to attempt more deals by Europe's dictators in the interest of a stabilized peace.

The "peace of Munich" by which Britain, Germany, Italy and France partitioned Czechoslovakia to prevent a war lost some of its glamor in the democracies after the first wave of enthusiasm had passed, but there still appeared to be no question of public approval for a course that averted immediate conflict.

Paramount Question.

In all four nations the paramount question was whether the future could be planned so that peaceful international negotiations would replace force or the threat of force in working out the many problems still unsettled. None knew the answer, but there were cautious attempts in Berlin and London to explore the field and in Paris the French government took positive steps toward the distant, dimly-seen goal.

The French council of ministers agreed unanimously to send an ambassador to Italy for the first time in many months and thus to recognize the Italian conquest of Ethiopia. Although Premier Edouard Daladier faced bitter opposition in parliament, it appeared certain that his program would be approved.

In London, the foes of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's policy of dealing with the dictators continued to charge in the house of commons that he had "surrendered" to Adolf Hitler but the cabinet filed a demand for a vote of confidence on the grounds that it kept England out of war. The outcome seemed certain approval.

Seek Positive Peace.

Thus the two Democratic powers sought to turn last week's threat of war into a positive gain for a more stable European peace built on collaboration among the four biggest nations and on the

Hear 'Bluebeard' Threw Corpse To 5 Pet Alligators

SAN ANTONIO — (INS) — Texas rangers, stating they would "overlook no bets," pressed an investigation today into a report that Joe D Ball, tavern operator and suspected of being a "modern bluebeard," threw the body of a young woman to his five pet alligators.

Ball committed suicide when deputy sheriffs were questioning him concerning his wife, who was later found in San Diego, Calif. A Bexar county deputy sheriff is now in that city endeavoring to obtain additional information about several other women who are missing.

Ranger Lee Miller, said he discounted the story of an unidentified witness who told Constable S. C. Cain he saw Ball throw the body of a "small young woman" to the alligators he kept behind his beer tavern at Elmendorf, near here, in 1932. Miller said, however, a complete check was being made of the witness' story.

Life Isn't Over at 34 Adviser Says

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

What shall I do with the remnant of life left me? I'm 34 years of age, and ever since I can remember, I waited and helped take care of my dear mother, who was an invalid. And now that she has passed away, I feel lost. The only thing I know how to do is nurse and keep house, but I've never had any hospital training. And am too old to be admitted as a probationer. I feel like a—

LOST SOUL.

You haven't told me anything about your financial circumstances, but if you can afford it, have a change of scene for a while at least and get over your morbid idea that life is over at 34. It's really just beginning. Then take some special kind of training, which will help you to get a good interesting job.

It is not unlikely, when you go into the world, that you may meet your fate in the right man.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Being deeply in love with a young man who has steadily courted me for about a year, I am very ill at ease because I am not so sure of his affection for me or his intentions.

Is it my turn or, rather, I should say, is it proper for me to take the initiative and suggest something like walking him past a jewelry store and openly choosing what ring I should like to have for an engagement?

WATCHFUL WAITER.

Unless the young man is as shy as a forest faun, the jeweler's window treatment would seem fatal to me. Before subjecting your boy friend to so crucial a test, you've got to be sure he's in love with you, and he is too shy to pop the question. You're uncertain about these things. A wiser policy, it seems to me, would be to wait until he declares his intentions.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, October 5.

AN INTERESTING DAY, but one in which personal indulgence in pleasure or social engagements may lure from the more sordid or commonplace activities, is read from the ruling planetary directions. Friendship, comradeship or more sentimental or romantic ties may be paramount and incite to extravagance.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a pleasant and rather merry year, in which social, romantic or domestic matters may be paramount. Indulgence, show and bids for the limelight may create financial stringency or embarrassments.

A child born on this day may have very high ambitions for prestige and personal popularity, bidding high for friendship, social or conspicuous standing rather than commonplace objectives.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

THE SLEEPY night clerk at the Lansfield snapped to attention as Bill and Hank came with me down the long, deserted stretch of lobby leading to the hotel desk.

"These are my nephews," I said, naming them. "They are staying the night, or what is left of it. I would like a room on the same floor with us, if possible."

"I—don't know—" he said. "I'll see. I'll have to call Mr. Milner, and—he's out."

"He can't be out at this hour," I said, voicing the ridiculous hypothesis irritably. "And if he is, the decision, of course, rests with you. I happen to know that Mr. Veritzen is keeping those rooms vacant, but he really doesn't mean that his daughter-in-law won't be permitted to have her two young brothers in a room near hers for the few hours they are here."

Room On Floor Below.

"I wouldn't know about that," he said. "If Mr. Milner comes in before you are settled for the night, I'll have him come up. But in his absence the best I can do is a room on the floor below, right near the elevator.

"That will have to do," I told him grudgingly, "but remember, I wish very much to speak to Mr. Milner tonight. It doesn't matter how late it is. I will wait for him, 24 hours if necessary."

"Oh! It won't be that late," he said. "I'll have him come up as soon as he comes in."

"Very well, I shall be expecting him," I said. "Keys, please?"

He called a boy, gave him the keys to the room he assigned to the boys as well as mine. We stopped first at the floor below ours, and I inspected and approved the room given the boys. Then, leaving their bag in the room, they came up with me to our suite, and I left them in the living room while I went into Mary's bedroom to awaken her.

Concerned About Noel.

She was lying in a slumber so deep, so almost like a stupor, that I hesitated for a second before I put my fingers softly on her wrist and spoke her name. I knew that she only had dropped into that sleep when she had been exhausted, not only from her arduous study of her role, but from the fears which were riding her for Noel and for herself.

That they were subconsciously with her, even in her sleep, I realized when she started up with a cry at my murmur of her name.

"Oh! What is it?" she asked wildly. Then, recognizing me, she clutched my hand tightly.

"Auntie Madge! Has anything happened to Noel?"

"No," I almost shouted, "nor to anyone except that Dicky thinks Hank ought to have a look-over from a good physician before he goes back to school."

"Hank!" she breathed, with her hand suddenly at her throat.

Just A Precaution.

"There's nothing really the matter with him," I went on in matter-of-fact tones that were calculated to calm her fears. "It's just a precaution. But—here's something which will please you, I know. Both Hank and Bill have come up to stay the night, so as to be here in the morning. They—"

"Where are they?" she demanded.

"In the living room," I told her. But even as she dashed for the door, she put the inevitable query.

"Have you heard anything from Noel?"

"Nothing important," I prevaricated. "I'll tell you later."

My omission of news concerning Noel was intentional. I meant that nothing should interfere with the giving of Mary's whole attention to her brothers, and for the next few minutes the boys fairly reveled in their enjoyment of their reunion with the sister, who, since her marriage, had been with them very little.

A low knock at the door made Mary look at me inquirigly.

"I'm sure it's the manager," I said as I went to the door. "I asked to have him come up about a room for the boys."

After a pass by East, South started the bidding on this deal with 1-Club. North responded with 1-Spade, South called 1-No Trump, North 2-No Trump and South 3-No Trump.

When West led the heart 4, East won the trick with the K and returned the 9. West captured the trick with the A and led another round to clear the suit. After winning with the Q, South decided to try out the club suit. Before giving up control, he reasoned that if West held the diamond A his contract was doomed, as West held two good hearts. Working on the assumption that the diamond A was held by East, South played the club 8 and allowed it to ride to East's 9. East returned a low diamond, hoping to get West in, but South went in with the K and with the club suit breaking was able to claim the remainder of the tricks.

Traditional Ways to Make Wedding Cake

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

SEVERAL requests for wedding reception recipes have piled up on our desk, so we think it high time we came through with some suggestions.

Very fitting is the first recipe, one for a wedding cake. Glycerine is recommended as an ingredient for this cake, for its addition to the chocolate while it is melting will keep it smooth and prevent it from drying.

Its Ingredients.

Now for the ingredients. The recipe calls for one cup each butter and sugar, six egg yolks, two cups flour, two teaspoons each cinnamon and allspice, half teaspoon each mace, nutmeg and cloves, two squares melted chocolate, one-quarter cup glycerine, half cup molasses, half cup fruit juices, one cup strawberry preserve, one pound each seedless raisins and seedless currants, one-third cup each candied orange peel and candied lemon peel (both cut into small pieces,) one-third cup candied cherries, one cup candied citron (cut into small pieces,) one cup blanched almonds (broken,) half cup each pecan meats and walnuts and six egg whites. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, creaming well. Beat egg yolks until thick and creamy, add to butter and sugar, blending well. Sift remaining dry ingredients together. Melt chocolate, add two tablespoons glycerine while melting. Add chocolate to molasses, fruit juices and preserves. Rug fruits and nuts with remaining glycerine, coating well. To sugar mixture add dry ingredients and liquid alternately. Stir fruits and nuts into batter. Fold in egg whites, beaten stiff but not dry, into batter. Bake in a tube pan about four hours in 250 F. oven.

Bride's Cake Recipe.

Now comes the bride's cake. It requires two-thirds cup buttermilk, cup granulated sugar, two tablespoons hot water, two and one-quarter cups cake flour, three teaspoons baking powder, half teaspoon salt, half cup milk, teaspoon vanilla, four egg whites and two teaspoons glycerine. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, creaming well. Add boiling water, a little at a time, and beat until light and fluffy. Sift dry ingredients together. Add flavoring to milk. Add dry ingredients and liquids alternately to creamed mixture, beating well. Beat egg whites and glycerine together until light and fluffy, and fold in batter. Bake in layer pans, 30 to 35 minutes in 350 F. oven. This is batter enough for a two-layer cake.

The frosting takes one cup granulated sugar, one-eighth teaspoon cream of tartar, one-quarter cup hot water, two teaspoons glycerine, one egg white and one-quarter teaspoon vanilla. Combine sugar, cream of tartar and hot water and bring to boiling point. Cook without stirring until syrup is of honey consistency (about 3 minutes cooking time.) Have egg white and glycerine beaten light. Add three tablespoons of the syrup to the egg white and beat well. Continue cooking syrup until it spins a thread, and beat in egg white. Continue beating, adding vanilla until frosting is of consistency to spread. Then ice cake.

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Bill is back in town. He called me at the store today. He has been spending some time around Santa Fe, combining business with lots of golf and a good time. He said that my letter about his mislaid letter pleased him so much, and he asked me when I could dine with him. I told him that we were terribly busy and that I couldn't say off-hand when he could make it. He accused me of putting on an act, and that got me angry.

No one can make me so angry as he can. I suppose psychologists and love-problem experts would say that it is because I am in love with him. Maybe I am, but I certainly am not going to put up with a man who speaks before he thinks, for I am sure that if Bill stopped to think, he would not say those unkind things and hurt me so. Maybe he thinks I haven't any feelings. Well, perhaps I am an old-fashioned girl, but an unkind word, a trival happening can make me miserable for months. I've cried and cried about Bill and his unkindness, and, believe me, now I'm hardened. I merely get annoyed and make up my mind not to see him; so I am not going to have dinner with him this week or any other week, despite the flowers that awaited me at the apartment when I got home.

After Good Time.

I have made up my mind that I am going to have a good time this winter wherever I am. I am smart, wear good clothes, look right, am considered good company and lots of fun, I play a good game of tennis and a fairly good game of golf and my bridge doesn't cause battles. So I feel sure that there are plenty of nice men who would enjoy my companionship.

When things get a little less hectic around here, I'm going to go over my wardrobe carefully so that I have plenty of clothes, and the right clothes, too, for any occasion.

But I had better give a thought to practical daytime clothes, such as this stunning coat. It is of vermillion wool with Alaska seal bishop sleeves, vest and back to offer a striking contrast. The vest is double-breasted in front with high, small lapels. The back is slightly draped. The set-in belt buckles in front. The coat is gored with two gores back and front.

Practical daytime coat.

My Neighbor Says:

When laying silver on table place all silver one inch from and at right angles to the edge of the table.

The knife is placed at the right of the plate, with cutting edge inside or toward the plate.

The fork is placed at the left of the plate, with the tines up.

At the right of the knife place the spoons in the order in which they are to be used; for example, the soup spoon, which is used first, should be on the extreme right.

The glass is placed at the right, just above the knife.

Bread and butter plate goes to the tip of the fork and a little to the left. Butter spreader is laid across the edge of the plate, with the handle toward the right.

The napkin, carefully folded, is laid at the left of the fork, one inch from the edge of the table, with the open corner the lower one and next to the fork.

You should have your bulbs already now to put into the ground. Bulbs put in now will mean lots of bloom early next Spring before the rest of the flowers and shrubs get started.

HAVE YOU TRIED THIS?

If you put a drop or two of glycerine in the soapy water next time the children want to blow bubbles, the bubbles will have more color and last longer before breaking.

Beauty Must Battle Dirt, Soot

By MME. QUI VIVE

The complexion has to take it on the chin, as it were. Also every place else. It has many enemies that are getting in their evil work—dusty atmospheres, climatic changes, digestive disturbances, fatigue, strong sunlight, harsh winds. The human hide has a lot to bear.

In spring and autumn it is likely to take on a post mortem appearance. During the silly season it gets sunburned, then tanned and the tan goes piebald, taking itself hence in small sections.

In large cities where chimneys chug out clouds of soot, there must be a never ceasing fight against dirt. Soap and water must be used freely, but often soap is not enough. If dust burrows into the pores, takes squatter's right, soap won't budge it. The only way to exterminate it is to use eau de cologne or some skin tonic with an alcoholic content that acts as a dry cleaning agent.

Be choosy about soap. Get the best. Toilet soaps have improved wonderfully the last twenty years. Use freely at night with light friction. Indulge in a clean wash cloth every day. But remember this: soap should not remain on the face for more than a few minutes, else it may make the surface on the skin rough. Fill the bowl with tepid water, rinse every particle of suds away. Then dash on cold water unless you are going to use a cream which acts more favorably when the flesh is warm.

Tap in your cream lightly, being careful not to push the flesh into folds around the eyes. That's one way of impairing the soft tissues. If you will avoid the rotary movement with the finger ends you'll have a safe method of massage.

Some finicky skins get furious when soap is used. You can avoid the sensitive after effects by using cream before washing the face, letting it stay on while steaming the skin with a soaped cloth. Cleansing meals take the place of soap, are soothing. You will find them at any cosmetic counter.

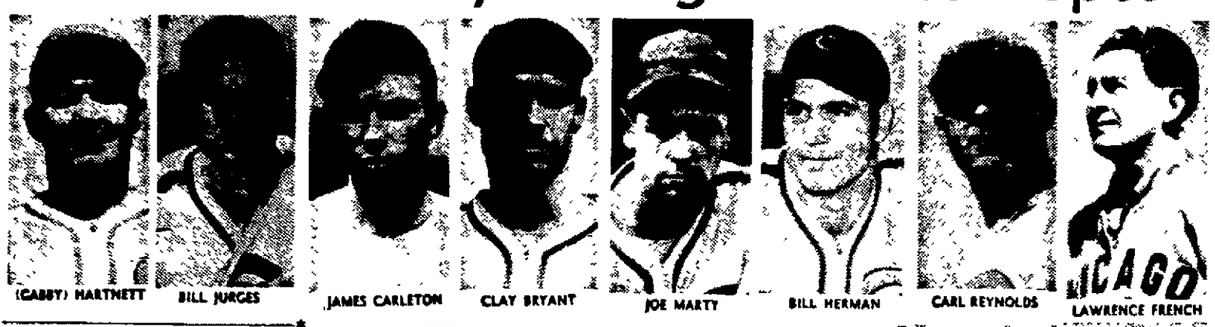
Cubs Bank on Lee In World Series Opener Wednesday

These Cubs Carry Chicago's Series Hopes



By Brietz

HARTNETT HAS NO WORRIES ABOUT NEXT SEASON; HE'LL BE RETAINED.

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
(Pinch-hitting for Brietz.)

CHICAGO—(AP)—On the eve of the world series there was one worry Charles Leo Hartnett, "Leo the Lion," didn't have — worry over a contract to manage the Cubs in 1939.

Philip K. Wrigley, owner of the Cubs, said today Gabby would have been retained next year even if he hadn't led the team to the pennant.

"So he certainly hasn't anything to worry about now," Wrigley added. "If I do as good a job running the business end as he did with the team we will be even. Gabby and his players proved to me what I have always maintained, that spirit and fortunate breaks can bring results. Hartness didn't wait for the breaks, he went after them. Anybody who gets any place does the same."

Gabby says he will catch the opener tomorrow, even if they have to lug him to the plate in a wheel chair. The first and third fingers of his right hand, injured by foul tips last week, still are swollen and sore but that won't stop him. The third finger, when taped, will not hamper his throwing. The index finger is discolored and still swollen.

Charley Grimm was the forgotten man in the division of the Cub share of the world series spoils. Just why he was not cut in was a subject debated everywhere today. He managed the Cubs for 81 games this season, being relieved by Hartnett July 20. The whispers that Grimm failed to offer congratulations to the Cubs seem to lack weight. No one has been more enthusiastic over the team's drive to the pennant than Grimm, now a radio sports announcer. The players' split promises to be the largest in history, an estimated $7,000 for each one of the winning team and around $4,500 for each of the losers.

The civic welcome to the Cubs yesterday knocked Hartnett cockeyed..."in my 17 years of baseball in Chicago I have had thrill after thrill but never one like this one," he said.

Dr. James Stotter, New York plastic surgeon, will fly to the coast to see what can be done about fixing up Maxie Rosenbloom's map so old Slapsie can go for those lover's roles in the movies ..Hank Greenberg, who came within three homers of being famous, has turned barnstormer and will give the Yanks and Cubs a little competition next Sunday when he appears with the Bay Parkway Pros.

Al Schacht Likes Pro Football.

AL SCHACHT, who begins clowning in his 19th world series tomorrow, already has dipped into pro football and would not be adverse to entertaining the amateurs except they don't pay...Rumors persist Connie Mack will throw hard-hitting Bob Johnson on the market this winter, if anybody has the price, which will be plenty.

WHITE, AERIAL DUO SHARE HONORS AS PIRATES WIN

NEW YORK—(AP)—Honors were divided today between "Whizzer" White and a brilliant Aerial combination, Frank Filchock and Wilbur Sortet, for the Pittsburgh Pirates' 13-10 defeat of the New York Giants in a national pro football league battle. A crowd of 18,805 witnessed the tilt last night. White's field running and the passing offense of the Filchock-Sortet duo brought the Pirates two touchdowns to conquer the powerful New Yorkers.

CUBS FORGET GRIMM AS THEY DIVIDE SPLIT

CHICAGO—(AP)—The National league champion Chicago Cubs voted Monday to split their world series money into 25 full shares, but left out Charlie Grimm, who was replaced as manager on July 20.

A 26th share was split three ways—one-half going to Pitcher Vance Page, who joined the club in the latter part of the season from Indianapolis of the American association, and a quarter share each to Pitcher Al Epperly and clubhouse boy Joe Bernardi.

No Rest For K-B's

Semi-Pros Return to Action Sunday Against Strong Huntington Club.

MANSFIELD'S Kallmerten & Baer Coals jump from the frying pan into the fire next Sunday, so to speak.

Handed their second straight defeat last Sunday, the K-B semi-pro gridders engage what stacks up to be even a tougher foe this week-end when they face the Huntington, W. Va., Pros at League park.

Handicapped For Opener.

The Kallmerten & Baers lost to the Pi Rho Phis of Detroit in their inaugural, but they might have won had they not been hindered in preparing for the game by organization work.

Last Sunday the K-B's took it on the chin when they failed to match the aggressiveness of their adversaries from Struthers.

The Coals were not outplayed by the speedy Struthers eleven, and should have had no worse than a tie out of the game. But they made mistakes and the visitors capitalized on them.

It is expected that Coach Gip Miller will shake up the lineup in an attemp to find a winning combination. The identity of the heads to fall has not been revealed, but Miller said that "changes are inevitable."

Not only does the play of the line need to improve, but the backfield also came in for criticism from Miller, who insists his ball toting department possesses more power than it has shown.

Miller expects to find out this week whether the offensive impotency is due to the slow play of the line or the backfield itself.

New Players Likely.

Whether any new players would be added to the squad could not be learned, but Business Manager Johnny Villella indicated that "something will be done" to inject new life into the semi-pro club.

The Huntington club is regarded as one of the strongest foes the K-B's will be forced to meet this season.

RUTH PICKS YANKEES TO WIN IN SIX GAMES

NEW YORK—(INS)—Visualizing the Yankees as the first team to capture three successive world championships, Babe Ruth, colorful idol of baseball, today predicted a world series triumph in six games for the New Yorkers over the Chicago Cubs.

The Bambino, who will miss the Chicago series games but not the contests to be played here, selected his former team-mates to continue their world series victory march at the expense of the champions of the league in which he is employed.

Tom Manning Again to Be At 'Mike' During Series.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Four sets of announcers will be telling the same story — activity on the world series diamond—when the networks open their microphones at Wrigley field, Chicago, for the first of the Chicago Cubs-New York Yankees games at 2:15 p. m. Wednesday.

They are: George Hicks, Tom Manning and Red Barber for WEAF-NBC; Al Rowswell, John O'Hara and George Higgins for WJZ-NBC; France Laux, Bill Dyer and Mel Allen for WABC-CBS; Bob Elson, Quin Ryan, Stan Lomax and Dave Driscoll for WOR-MBS. After the teams transfer to New York air time will be 1:15.

BEARS TAKE LEAD IN A. A. SERIES WITH 2-1 VICTORY

NEWARK, N. J — (UP) — The Newark Bears and the Kansas City Blues went to Kansas City today to resume the "Little World Series" on Wednesday. The Bears took a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series for the minor league baseball championship when they beat the Blues, 7-1, in the third game of the series here last night.

Bucks to Bank On Air Game

Ohio State in Shape for Trojan's Invasion.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Banking on the same kind of aerial maneuvers that beat Indiana, Coach Francis Schmidt had his Ohio State Buckeyes on the practice field today warming up for Saturday's intersectional tilt with Southern California.

As the days preceding the game began to slip away, stories of the Trojan's greatness began to seep across the country.

The 19-to-7 defeat by Alabama notwithstanding, the Men of Troy are reputed to have a great ball club and they are gunning for Ohio State.

Physically, Schmidt's boys are in fairly decent shape. Barring unexpected injuries, the same team that took the field against Indiana will probably line up against the Trojans.

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—Coach Howard Jones of the USC Trojans will give his team a light drill today and then put them aboard a train tonight for Columbus where on Saturday they will meet Ohio State.

Thirty-seven players, plus the usual retinue of coaches, trainers and managers will make the trip.

Jones wasn't any too optimistic about Troy's chances against Ohio State, with three of his men, Schindler, Anderson and Lansdell laid up with injuries, but he has done a little bolstering here and there in the hopes of upsetting the dope.

Weber Lost to Vols For Rest of Season.

Nick Weber, former Mansfield high school football star, will be lost to the University of Tennessee team for the balance of the season, it was learned today by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sebastian Weber, 51 South Diamond street.

Weber, a junior halfback, handicapped by a bad knee, underwent an operation in the University hospital in Nashville last week. A cartilage in the left knee was found completely detached and it was removed.

FORMER CADDIES WIN GREENSKEEPERS' TITLES

CANTON—(AP)—A pair of former caddies, Ernie Jacobs of Pittsburgh and Sam Matteo of Cleveland, today held the championship laurels of the first annual golf tournament sponsored by the National Greenskeepers' association.

Jacobs was crowned national champion yesterday at nearby Hartville after scoring 72-74-146 on the Congress lake course. Matteo won the Ohio State Greenskeepers' title with a first round 75. The Ohio title was decided on the tournament's first 18 holes.

Simmons In 'Dutch,' Draws $200 Fine

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Al Simmons, veteran outfielder of the Washington Senators, faced further disciplinary action today for a barrage of tart language which he directed at a fan during the final game of the American League season here.

Simmons was fined $200 by Owner Clark Griffith of the Senators who reported the case to Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis and American League President William Harridge for whatever action they cared to take. Further, it was doubtful whether Simmons' contract would be renewed by Griffith next year.

Simmons became incensed in the second game of a doubleheader Sunday when he went in as a pinch hitter. A lone heckler started crying "Pop-Up Simmons" at him. As the abuse continued, Simmons rounded third base where he turned upon the stands and shouted for the heckler to meet him later..

SOPH BALL CARRIERS HIGH IN SCORING RACE

COLUMBUS—(UP)—Two sophomore ball carriers, Steve Belichick, Western Reserve fullback, and Ed Wysocki, Miami halfback, today pressed the veteran Boot Elkins, Marshall quarterback, for individual scoring honors on Ohio college gridirons. The yearlings counted a total of 46 points between them in their two varsity games this fall.

They had to take a back seat, however, in favor of the Marshall artist who ran wild Saturday night in the Herd's 62 to 0 rout of Ohio Wesleyan. Elkins crossed the goal line four times for touchdowns in that contest and once in the opening game against Carson-Newman to give him 30 points to date.

Feller Is 'Speed King' In More Ways Than One.

IOWA CITY, Ia. — (INS) — Young Bob Feller, Cleveland's pitching ace who had too much speed for eighteen Detroit Tigers whom he struck out in setting a new record Sunday, also had too much speed for Iowa City Monday.

The strikeout king, accompanied by Catcher Rollie Hemsley, was picked up by the police for speeding as he drove toward his home, Van Meter, Ia., where a celebration at which the governor will speak is being arranged for him. The police were a good deal more flabbergasted than Feller when they learned that their speeder was the toast of the state. They released him with a warning.

BANTAMWEIGHTS MEET

A meeting of bantamweight football players will be held at the home of Harry Dandadis, 278 West Sixth street, at 8 p. m. today.

HOOSIERS LOSE LEWIS

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—(INS)—Suffering from a wrenched knee, Cobb Lewis, sophomore halfback, of Indiana, today appeared definitely out of the Illinois game Saturday.

BOWLING SCORES

Brig Young, American Legion Entry Set Scoring Pace In Club Handicap League.

THE American Legion entry made its hold on first place in the Club Handicap league secure last night when it took three games from the Baku Grotto at the Meder Recreation alleys.

The Legionnaires compiled a 2905 total from games of 1012, 964 and 929, and the loss of two tilts by the Commercial Managers by the Kiwanians enabled them to gain the undisputed lead.

Brig Young set the individual pace for the Legion club with a 640, which he inaugurated with a 255. Pete Grohol contributed a 625 to the Legionnaires' total.

The Liederkranz was next high in the team scoring with a 2744 total, but was good for only one win in the series with the Mansfield Savings Bank.

In the other matches, the Schoolmasters won two games from the Tracy & Avery club, the Optimists took a pair from the J. A. C. and the Mansfield Athletic club took two at the expense of the Page Dairys.

Yanks Rely On Gomez, Hitters

Unofficial Odds Favor New York by About 3-1; Chicagoans Anxious to Tee Off Against Bombers.

By GAYLE TALBOT

CHICAGO—(AP)—The New York Yankees, fresh off the train, join the Cubs in a final workout at Wrigley Field today in preparation for tomorrow's opening game of the 1938 world series, which is certain to be witnessed by a capacity throng of 44,000.

The Cubs, still picking ticker tape out of their hair from the rousing welcome home given them yesterday, chose to do their limbering up before noon and then turn the park over to the visiting firemen from the American league.

No Hanging Around.

It is possible that Manager Gabby Hartnett told his boys not to hang around after their practice and watch the Yankees put on their old act of clouting three dozen balls out of the orchard. The act is understood to be very devitalizing to opposing teams, and is supposed to have scared the Pittsburgh Pirates silly before the start of their 1927 series against the Yankees.

LEFTY GOMEZ

The Chicago Cubs, though, don't act like an outfit that would scare easily. Individually and collectively they have been sneering for two days now at every mention of the Yankees' vaunted batting power, and they swear they can't wait to tie into the world champions.

The town is pretty much excited about the big event which has dropped so suddenly and dramatically into its lap. Hotels already are crammed and tickets for the first two games here are understood to be getting scarce. There isn't much betting. Unofficial odds hereabouts favor the Yanks by about 3 to 1.

Unless he gets a powerful hunch to do otherwise, Hartnett is certain to throw his star young right-hander, Bill Lee, against the Yankees' Lefty Gomez when they take the field at 2:30 p. m. (EST) tomorrow. Lee pitched in two games for the Cubs when they lost the 1935 world series to Detroit, four games to two. He started one and was the relief hurler in the other, but neither was credited with a victory nor charged with a defeat. Gomez has pitched and won five world series games, so it is an old story to the eccentric southpaw.

Chicago's chances seem to hinge on the possibility that Lee, a 22-game winner this year, can stop the Manhattan Murderers twice, and maybe three times. Yank adherents, however, point to the fact that few pitchers ever manage to fool DiMaggio, Dickey, Gehrig and the other members twice running.

Clay Bryant, the other strong-arm member of the Cubs' staff, is the logical choice to oppose Charley Ruffing in the second go-round. He is a little faster than Lee, so the New Yorkers can look forward to a diet of speed for the first two days. In the third game in New York they are likely to get a look at Dizzy Dean's new assortment of curves and cunning. Old Diz is yelling for a shot at the big fellows.

Averages About Same.

The Yankees carry into the series a club batting average of .274 against the Cubs' mark of .269. Also, and vastly more important, they nudge the ball for home runs, triples and doubles, while the Cubs specialize in singles. Both are fine fielding clubs, and the Yanks have the best throwing outfield in the business.

The Yankees are seeking their third straight world championship, a record which up to now has defied all the great clubs in history.

It might be noteworthy to recall at this time that the Giants, who opposed the Yanks just a year ago, managed to score exactly one run in each of the first three series games off Gomez, Ruffing and Monte Pearson. Or maybe the Cubs wouldn't like to hear anything about that.

REDS HAVE SEVEN STARS UNDER CONTRACT FOR '39

CINCINNATI —(AP)— The Cincinnati Reds have seven regulars under contract for the 1938 season. The contracts of Outfielders Ival Goodman and Harry Craft were filed today with those of earlier signers Paul Derringer, Johnny Vander Meer, Frank McCormick, Charley Barrett and Gene Schott.

Welcome, Cubs

Chicago roared its welcome to the pennant-winning Cubs in a long parade through the loop, after the new National league champions returned from their final game in St. Louis. MODERNIZATION OF FARMS AIM OF FHA DRIVE

Insured Mortgage System to Allow Payments on Monthly or Seasonal Basis.

No other single improvement contributes so much to making life in a farm home more convenient and more healthful during the winter than the installation of a complete water system with modern plumbing, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

Modernization of farm homes with a water supply and waste disposal system is one of the features of the "Ready for Winter" campaign of the Federal Housing Administration.

The entire project including the drilling of the well, installation of an automatic electric pump, the necessary piping, the plumbing fixtures, and the septic tank and the disposal area can be financed on the FHA plan with payments on the monthly or seasonal basis, at the option of the farmer.

Automatic self-oiling pumps, both of the shallow well and deep well types, are made in a variety of sizes and capacities to meet the needs of different installations which vary with respect to the amount of water available, the depth of the well, the distance from the well to the house, and the volume of water needed.

In planning a farm water system it is advisable to keep in mind the ultimate future requirements as well as immediate needs. The advice of an experienced pump dealer in the selection of a sturdy, dependable pump of adequate size equipped with reliable controls should always be obtained.

A careful inspection of the heating plant now will safeguard the home-owner against the danger of a breakdown in the middle of winter, the Bureau points out.

It is important to start the heating season with a clean boiler. Many heating contractors are equipped with a vacuum system for cleaning soot and fly-ash from boiler flues.

That every automatically-fired boiler should be protected against the hazards of low water is the suggestion made by the Bureau.

Devices are available which automatically cut off the fuel supply when the water in the boiler drops to a dangerously low level, the Bureau points out. Such safety devices operate with equal efficiency with liquid, gas, or solid fuels.

HAWTHORN SEED OIL

The seeds of the hawthorn fruit are found to yield a thin, mobile, drying oil of a pale yellow color which may come to be of value in the paint manufacturing industry. Hawthorn is coming to be increasingly planted—by roadsides and elsewhere—because its fruit contains a large amount of Vitamin C.

Materials And Supplies HOMES Estimates Plans And

House of Careful Planning

The "low-cost" cottage shown in the accompanying illustration has all the beauty of a house costing twice as much to build, and all the comforts that careful planning can provide. Furthermore, it has all the possibilities of growing into a larger home without awkward results in its architectural beauty.

Notwithstanding it is a small home, the architect in designing it, provided for all the advantages of properly specified materials and safety of correct construction throughout. Wall space in the living room and two bedrooms has been planned for convenient arrangement of furniture and there is ample closet room.

Although no dining room or breakfast nook are laid out, space for serving meals can be provided either in the kitchen or living room. This low-cost home is substantially designed and it is attractive and homy in appearance because of its simplicity. The architect had in mind that it be built throughout of properly seasoned southern pine to assure economy in cost and upkeep, strength and durability.

LACQUERED FABRICS

Lacquer is not only valuable for finishing furniture, automobiles and other articles, but it has lately attained considerable popularity in the textile industry. Novelty effects and colors of exceptional brilliance may be obtained. Lacquered fabrics withstand dry cleaning satisfactorily. Since materials already dyed and finished may be lacquer printed, merchants who are overstocked with solid color goods of slow selling qualities, may have such goods re-decorated with ornamental patterns.

IRRIGATION INCREASED

SIMLA, India—(INS)—The government is steadily enlarging the field of cultivation in India by large-scale irrigation schemes. Areas under state irrigation now total 31,000,000 acres.

OFFER PAINTING SUGGESTIONS FOR INTERIOR, EXTERIOR WORK

Painting is one of the most important operations in the building of a new house from the standpoint of both appearance and upkeep. Skimping in painting is the poorest kind of economy, while quality materials properly mixed and placed are the best insurance against future repair bills.

All millwork should receive a prime coat before or immediately after installation.

Exterior woodwork should be painted with not less than three coats of paint, including the prime coat, except wood shingles and half-timber work, which may have two coats of stain or penetrating oil. When especially prepared by the manufacturer for the purpose, two-coat paint may be used, but it should be applied in strict accordance with the manufacturer's specifications.

All masonry or concrete walls, when painted, should have at least two brush coats of paint especially prepared for the purpose and applied according to recommendations.

Interior woodwork, if painted, should have at least two and preferably three coats of flat paint, or two coats of flat and one of enamel. In kitchens and bathrooms, a high-gloss enamel is advisable, as it is easier to keep clean and will stand more wear.

CHARMING COLOR

A well-lighted bedroom was made charming by the simple combination of red, blue and white. The walls were painted a restful shade of Delft blue, the woodwork white, and the bed niche,. which contained the windows, was draped with white, looped back curtains. White, straight-hung curtains were used at the windows and the twin mahogany beds were covered by dark red and white striped spreads of taffeta with gathered side valances. The remainder of the furniture was also in mahogany finish.

REPAIR LEAKS

Before winter storms begin, all leaks in your roof should be mended, and the roof re-coated if it needs it. Work of this type may be carried out these days on the budget plan. Consult any financial institution about obtaining funds and save your property from deteriorating further before another spring.

CHILD'S BATHROOM

A nautical note may well influence the decoration of the children's bathroom. Paint the upper walls—and the ceiling—a pale sky-blue. Along the blue-green dado, which has a "wavy" outline at the top, stencil white sail boats. Add a border trim of white ships to the blue enameled hamper and cabinet, and paint a life preserver white for a towel bar which will help remind the children to hang up their towels.

GROWERS MEET

Potato Marketing Problem to Be Discussed Here Tonight.

CINDER BLOCK IS UNIFORM
Naturally cinder concrete units cast in uniform molds under pressure and then properly cured will fulfill this requirement better than units made from materials which may be warped during the burning process. The uniform rough texture gives a good mechanical bond, and equally important is the uniform absorptive character of the surface, so the plaster will set evenly and prevent the checking which would otherwise result.

FORMER BANKER LIKES WPA JOB

Ex-Vice President at $18,000 a Year Takes Job at $93 Monthly Salary.

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND—From an $18,000-a-year vice president to a $93.50-a-month WPA worker isn't exactly a success story, but Archibald R. Frasher thinks it one way to make a comeback.

"I'm happy," the former vice president of the now-defunct Guardian Trust Co. said. "I've paid my debt to society, and I am trying to make a living for myself and wife and forget what happened a few years back."

In 1935, Fraser pleaded guilty to charges that he had embezzled $3,000 in bonds. He was paroled after serving a year and 10 days.

Now he is employed as an accountant on Project 17013, a WPA inventory of city-owned property.

His fellow employes, for the most part, do not know that they are working with a former bank vice president.

"Naturally, I try to keep this a secret," said the chubby, pipe-smoking Fraser. "I am just trying to make a comeback the best way I know how."

The man who once sat behind a mahogany desk and conferred with the city's leaders now works over a battered school desk, checking cards describing the condition of city equipment. One of 102 men and women counting, card-indexing and appraising 200,000 items of city property ranging from garbage trucks to X-ray machines, he feels he is doing a useful task. His project superintendent, E. G. Perry, praises Fraser.

"He is a loyal employe and very efficient," Perry said. "I wouldn't want him to leave the project, as his varied knowledge of accounting and inventories is very useful."

Frasher, a short time before he went on WPA, filed a voluntary bankruptcy petition showing liabilities of $122,939 and assets of $4,092.

"My new job isn't a case of courage or determination at all," the former banker said; "it's just a case of necessity."

'EGGS' GUNMAN

Menaced Woman Leaves Him Have Whole Sack Full.

LIMA—(AP)—Reversing the slang expression, Mrs. J. H. Morton "egged off" a couple of would-be robbers here. Returning home with her husband from a grocery store, she was confronted by two men, one of them brandishing a revolver. Without hesitation, Mrs. Morton slapped the gunmen in the face with a sack of a dozen eggs. Dripping "yellowly," the man and his companion fled as Mr. Morton groaned, "There goes my breakfast."

CHAPTER 10

THE FRIENDLY spirit in which Judy Rogers had come to Ronald Birrell evaporated as she heard his voice saying:

"I've been expecting you."

She did not comment on his statement until she was in his private office. Then she faced him and spoke slowly:

"Why were you expecting me?"

"Won't you sit down? I'd like to, and I can't while you stand, you know."

She dropped into a chair. It was deliciously soft and deep after the hard-bottomed chairs and benches of the wholesale house. Ronald sat down at his desk, long legs spread out, hands back of his bright head, and grinned.

"I'm sorry, Judy Rogers, but there are no dividends to amount to anything to report. I'm having Miss Martin prepare a check for you, for what it's worth."

"You mean that there is some money for me?" Judy gasped.

"A little. Isn't that why you came?"

Judy's eyes flamed with red lights, and she stood up. "No! I thought we were bankrupt. I don't see how there could be any money. I came for some advice. I..."

She turned to the door. In one more moment she would cry, and he would laugh again.

In a quick stride Ronald crossed the floor, took her hands into his strong tanned ones, and looked into the tear-flooded brown eyes.

"Judy, I'm sorry. I didn't mean to hurt you. I thought you came to collect. And I hated to think so, and took a coward's way out. I tried to hurt you. Judy, will you forgive me?"

"Why do you care if I borrow or collect? You hate me, and my kind."

He dropped her hands. "No, Judy. I don't. That's the trouble, you see. Now what was it that brought you here?"

She told him briefly. He walked back and forth across the deeply carpeted office twice when she finished. Then he said:

"You're sure you haven't a paper, a sketch, anything?"

"Nothing. I've searched everywhere."

"The double-crossing scoundrels! They should be dragged into court and brought to terms. Or maybe we could arbitrate But Judy—Miss Rogers, we must have some proof. I believe you, but a judge wouldn't."

"Then there is nothing I can do?"

"I'm afraid not. But I'll not give up Maybe I can frighten them into confessing. Mind if I try?"

"Of course not. I think you are being fine. I can't pay you, you see, for a long time."

"I don't want to be paid. We still handle your father's affairs. We hope to be busy with them some day again. This is something personal I'm doing for you."

It was a check for $100 that Miss Martin brought in presently, and Ronald handed to Judy.

She took it, folded it, and passed it back to him. "I'm strictly on my own. If there is any money, give it to my father, please. I'm doing fine."

Ronald put his hands on her shoulders and his gray eyes scanned hers. "You're mighty plucky, but you shouldn't have to go through this. Judy, give up. It's not a girl's racket."

She drew away. "Give up? But you got me into it. I mean you suggested that I couldn't fight life."

He groaned. "Don't I know it? And haven't I been cursing myself for seven kinds of a fool ever since? I was a conceited kangaroo. Judy, give it up, won't you?"

"And starve?"

He glanced at her quickly. "Is it as bad as that?"

"You know the family finances."

"But your mother—isn't she helping you?"

"She thinks I'm with my father. She has a lot of expense. They bought a new villa on the Riviera, you see. I'm 21. I ought to be able to make a living. I'll get by somehow—and I'll be a designer, too It may be only kitchen aprons'"

"Sure you will! Judy, I owe you an apology. I thought you were doing the smart society gag—living on an income and being democratic about a job. I didn't know it was this bad."

"Oh. I'm all right. The rent's paid for another month, I have a dozen cans of soup and some chocolate bars laid by, and money to last a few weeks."

"Where are you staying?'

"I'm keeping that as a secret."

"If anything should develop about your argument with the wholesale house where shall I contact you, then?"

"I'll telephone your secretary."

"It won't work. After all, your father's lawyers have been your guardians for a long time. We claim the right We must have your address."

"No I'm sorry. I'm not coming out of hiding...that is, until I've made good I thought I was when my sketch was accepted, but look how it turned out."

"You are making good, Judy." She noticed that he used her first name, as though it was a familiar sound on his tongue. "Do you think those people would have stolen your sketches if they hadn't been ace high? That's a sure sign that you have the stuff in you. Don't be sad about it. You should rejoice. You can sketch other dresses, can't you?"

"Of course."

"Then do it. The world will want to be clothed in Judy Rogers' frocks some day."

When Judy left the office, she felt happier than she had for several days. She wondered why Ronald had not taken her to lunch. She was oddly disappointed, let down, when she thought of it. He had been interested in her. Much as she had been aggravated by his attitude, she admitted that she had found something attractive in it. Well, she would have a sandwich and some tea before she went out to search for a new job. Here was a place ...the place that Ronald had once taken her.

She sat down at a table along the wall, ordered a tuna fish sandwich on toast and a pot of tea.

She was half through her luncheon when Ronald entered. There was a girl with him. A girl with yellow hair. Miss Martin, of course, Judy decided in that first swift glance. Then the girl turned her head. It wasn't Miss Martin. It was someone much prettier, much more self-confident.

The girl was looking up at Ronald, and as they passed the table at which she sat, Judy noted how purplse and wide the girl's eyes were, how well the slim black suit fitted her lithe body. She looked expensive.

"And she is as out of place in this eating place as I was the day he brought me here," Judy commented inwardly.

She didn't want any more of the sandwich. She drank the tea quickly, without sugar or cream.

She told herself that she was upset over the sketches, her loss of a job, everything. Not for a second did she admit that the shining-haired creature with Ronald Birrell had anything to do with it. She decided to go to a movie.

All through the picture the leading man took turns changing places with Craig. It was always that way. But Ronald's head of bright red hair stuck itself impudently before her eyes now and then, too. She brushed it away.

The news reel began. The hunting season was opennig. A group of people, ready to ride to hounds on Long Island, was shown. There, at the front, smiling into her eyes, was Craig. Craig, who had said: "Judy, Judy, where are you?"

Mary Greets Injured Hubby

Mary Pickford smiles wistfully at her husband, Charles "Buddy" Rogers when she arrived by air yesterday afternoon from New York to be at his bedside in a Columbus hospital. Rogers suffered torn ligaments of his right shoulder when the car in which he and two members of his band were riding turned over after hitting a pole between Columbus and Delaware early yesterday morning. Rogers is expected to leave the hospital in a few days.

INDIAN TRIBE OF 295 AMAZES U. S. BY PAYING PART OF GRANT

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The Swinomish Indians of Skagit county, Wash., are a very unusual tribe, even the Indian office admits.

Not only are they one of the few tribes—if not the only one—which has not borrowed from the government since the Indian reorganization act of 1934 gave that privilege, but the Swinomish have dedicated a WPA project toward which they insisted on paying the sponsor's share, just like a white man's city.

Dominating the project — an athletic field and community center building—is the largest totem pole in the United States, perhaps on the continent.

Officials here were unable to say whether that was a WPA project, too. Regardless, the carving was supervised by an expert, Charles Edwards, who comes from a long Puget Sound line of totem pole carvers and canoe builders.

The playing field, best in the country, according to officials of the Tulalip Indian agency, and remodeling of the old American hall for a community center and theaters cost $16,000. WPA paid three-fourths.

Ordinarily the government pays all when there's work to be done on an Indian reservation. But the Swinomishes, numbering 285, insisted on dipping into the profits of their tribal fish trap in the Sound.

Dedication of the facilities and the pole, a monument to tribes of the Puget Sound region, will be attended by John Collier, Indian commissioner.

The totem pole, 60 feet high and based by a carving of Chief Magic Robe, reproduces "a collection of carvings hitherto seen on the pillars of large council halls," some of which were 1,000 feet long before the white man came and began building 1,000 feet up.

History, tradition, legend and religion of Puget Sound Indians are depicted.

The Old World rushes along from crisis to crisis. Diplomats hasten from one conference to another. Munition plants hum at top speed and armies grow greater.

What is happening now? What will happen next?

On every news front in uneasy Europe, American-trained correspondents are alert every minute around the clock to report the swift march of events for this newspaper with vivid accuracy and speed. They are the staff reporters for The Associated Press and they have been in the midst of international trouble many times before.

DeWitt Mackenzie, who only recently covered the historic conference between Prime Minister Chamberlain and Chancellor Hitler on the momentous Czechoslovakian situation, was with The Allies in the World War.

Louis P. Lochner, constantly at Hitler's side to obtain minute-by-minute developments in Berlin, is the reporter who scored the great beat on the Nazi "blood purge" of 1934. He has covered German affairs for the past 14 years.

John Lloyd, with the French ministers to report the Paris angle of the Sudeten controversy, helped to cover the Spanish war.

Richard Massock, at Mussolini's side to cover Italian developments, was stationed in Russia.

Melvin K. Whiteleather, at Eger to report on Czechoslovakian mobilization, saw many years of service with the League of Nations at Geneva.

Alvin J. Steinkopf, who directed the activities of a corps of AP reporters at Prague, covered Hitler when the Chancellor marched into Vienna to annex Austria.

These are but a few of the dozens of Associated Press correspondents who are stationed abroad to report the nervous course of European history. Like all Associated Press reporters, they were there yesterday, they are there today, and they will be there tomorrow.

FIND COMFORT IN FORECASTS OF AUTO TRADE

Traders Encouraged by Reports That New Car Orders Exceed Expectations.

NEW YORK—The stock market loitered at slightly depressed levels today after five successive rising sessions.

In the downward drift were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Deere, Allis Chalmers, Consolidated Edison, North American, Anaconda, Kennecott, General Electric, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Philip Morris, N. Y. Central and Pennsylvania.

Brokers attached little significance to the mild set-back. Europe apparently was in the background as a market motivator and domesic news held the principal attention in boardrooms. Bonds were a shade recessionary and commodities uneven.

The gold price at London again was lifted the equivalent of about 14 cents an ounce and sterling gave ground in terms of the dollar. London securities quotations dropped and the Paris market was irregular.

Comfort was found in forecasts of trade observers placing aggregate net profits of the automobile industry during the final quarter at between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000.

Reports received by trade surveys indicated that retail orders for new 1939 passenger cars now being booked by dealers in the metropolitan area are greatly exceeding expectations.

On the side of the rails were opinions expressed in transportation circles that the peak in freight loadings this fall would not be reached until the latter part of this month.

Delayed grain shipments and a pick-up in industry were expected to prolong traffic gains.

THEATER

CONWAY TEARLE, whose funeral services were held yesterday in Hollywood, was one of the movie players whose star was brightest during the silent era and which declined when talkies came in. Yet he was essentially an actor of the spoken stage, having started his career at 14. He was a popular actor before entering the movies in 1914, and after his movie star went into decline he returned to the stage and made an outstanding hit in "Dinner at Eight." He was 60 years old at the time of his death.

"Lady Objects."

Lanny Ross, who has a wide following as a radio singer and is now crashing the movies, is featured with Gloria Stuart in "The Lady Objects," the story of a successful wife whose wall-flower husband gets into a lot of trouble, including a murder. Her defense of him at his trial gives the film its title. Joan Marsh is in the cast, and Ross has an opportunity to sing. It opens at the Madison Wednesday.

A Tough Guy.

Mickey Rooney, probably one of the three greatest juvenile box office draws in pictures, shifts his happy-go-lucky role of Andy Hardy to become an extremely tough guy in "Boys Town," story of Father Flanagan's famous juvenile community in Nebraska. It is one of his most serious and certainly his most dramatic role to date, and he handles it like a veteran. Spencer Tracy is costarred with Rooney in the film which runs through Wednesday at the Ohio.

Armetta Heads Family.

Funny little Henry Armetta takes his place with Lewis Stone, Jed Prouty and other popular players as the head of a movie family, with a down-and-out race horse, and such players as Michael Whalen and Lynn Bari, romp through the first episode of the series, "Speed to Burn," at the Majestic. "Goldwyn Follies" is the second film.

Park Bill Unchanged.

Paul Robeson, one of the finest of Negro actors in America, plays a dramatic role in "Dark Sands," a story of Africa which is featured at the Park. Henry Wilcoxon is also a principal player. For romance there is Claudette Colbert in "She Married Her Boss," as the principal attraction. She has the support of Melvyn Douglas and Michael Bartlett. The current bill will be in effect until Thursday.

BLAMES BRITISH FOR WAR SCARE

Irwin in Talks Here Asserts 'Betrayal' of Czechs Was Planned Last Year.

to appease Hitler, but of arbitrarily forcing France to join it, under threat of demoralizing that country's franc, and breaking the Anglo-French military treaty.

France, he pointed out, was not in sympathy with the Chamberlain policy, and saw in it grave danger to her own form of government.

"I declare to you," Irwin said, "that what we have witnessed within the past few weeks was not the dovetailing of spontaneous events, but the enactment of a scenario, the draft of which was started by Lord Halifax at Berlin last November. Chamberlain was putting the best possible front on affairs to save his own government, to save his scheme of allowing Hitler to build his Nazi empire and block the course of history; to save the interests of the British ruling class.

"Was there anyone gullible enough to believe Hitler when he said a week ago today in his speech at Munich: 'I have no further territorial claims to make on Europe'? If there is such a person let him read the report of Hitler's speech on March 7, 1936 when the Reichwehr marched into the Rhineland to take it. He said then, as he said last week: 'We have no further territorial demands to make in Europe.'

"The powers of Europe have not prevented a war, they have only laid a war scare created by Chamberlain's propagandists."

Irwin said the sole remaining hope for Czechoslovakia is that the French and English parliaments refuse to ratify the pact made with Germany, but this, he added was too much to hope for, and that although popular approval had been withheld from Chamberlain's policy, parliament would probably ratify it.

'Hitler's Last Barrier.'

He pictured the small democracy of Czechoslovakia after the World war, building for its future, feeling secure in the promise of protection guaranteed by the big powers through the Versailles treaty. He said that Hitler decided to annex the small country as it was the last great barrier on his path to the east, and because its highly industrialized areas and raw materials will add largely to his war supplies.

Irwin said that Chamberlain's policy of appeasing the dictators of Europe is not all on the surface; that behind it is Great Britain's two great fears—Russia and its spread of Communism which threatens the British empire, and Germany's threat to British interests in South Africa.

"Chamberlain is indifferent to what happens in Central Europe or how powerful the Hitler empire may become," he said, "for he is sure that Britain's time will come when Germany and Russia fly at each other's throats and tear each other to pieces. For then Great Britain will do what it has always done—step in and pick up the valuable pieces."

Irwin painted a gloomy picture of the democracies in Europe, as the result of Great Britain's foreign policy, asserting that Chamberlain is aware that Mussolini will take Spain and Russia will take Poland. France, hemmed in on all sides by enemies and with dissentions within, is rapidly nearing the end of her days as a democracy, he said.

Irwin, whose views coincide with many of the international writers of the day, was decorated last year by the government of Czechoslovakia for his interest in, and understanding of the problems of that country.

JURY SEATED FOR TRIAL OF 5 ACCUSED IN LORAIN 'SLOT' CASE

ELYRIA—The trial of five men accused of bribing Lorain county officials in order to operate a slot machine "combine" opened today in Judge Guy B. Findley's common pleas court before a jury of nine women and three men.

Prosecutor Howard R. Butler summoned proprietors of establishments in which machines were placed, intending to prove the defendant's connection with the "racket."

On trial are Dave Crawford, sr., and Dave Crawford, jr., Stanton S. Hobbs, William Peer and Harry Ziegman.

Sheriff William F. Grall, in a signed statement, accused former Chief Deputy William G. Smith yesterday of "reviving" slot machine operations. Both Grall and Smith are under bond as material witnesses. They were granted immunity from prosecution for testifying before the county grand jury.

"There is no doubt in my mind," said Grall's statement, "that I made a grave mistake in letting my chief deputy revive the slot machine racket in even a limited way during this spring.

"As soon as I could discover from reports of my deputies what it was leading to, I promptly cut 'the Gordian knot' Aug. 23 and netted seven machines which are still being held as evidence pending disposition of the present indictments."

Grall said the county was "thoroughly cleaned up" two weeks before the grand jury reported. He claimed he ordered deputies to assist in the jury's investigation.

"If the public desires me to continue in office and in opposition to the racket, I am fully prepared to do so. On the other hand, if sentiment prevails that the integrity of the sheriff's office would be best served by my resigning, I shall not hesitate to do so," he said.

Grall refused to resign at the request of two judges after his appearance before the jury. He met a service bond increase of $15,000, which county commissioners demanded, and also posted $10,000 bond as a material witness.

Sheriff's Office Fooled By Query Concerning Thug

HOUSTON, Tex.—(INS)—The Harris county sheriff's department wonders who's crazy now—they or the Oklahoma City police?

The department received a telegram from the Sooner authorities which read:

"Do you want John Moorman Salmon?"

Salmon was one of 12 prisoners who escaped in 1930 from the Harris county jail. Naturally the sheriff's office rushed back a wire:

"We hold three felony capiases here against the man. Will he waive extradition?"

No answer being received from Oklahoma City, the department sent another message three days later asking why the delay.

Back came the answer:

"We haven't got Salmon. Just getting information to complete police records."

The sheriff's department, to a man, said "Oh."

MUST MARRY

Italy's Government Executives Must Be Wed at 30.

ROME—(INS)—If an Italian wants to amount to anything in a government job he must get married.

This was the effect of a decree approved by the Council of Ministers guaranteeing non-promotion to any employe over 30 who is not married. Executives who hope for advancement must be married by that age; those in lesser jobs must end their single blessedness by 26.

FATE CROSSES EX-FIGHTER

CAMDEN, N. J.—(INS)—Billy Angelo, 30, once a leading welterweight, fought for nine years in the ring without suffering any serious injuries. While playing with his 4-year-old niece, she stuck her finger in his eye. Angelo went to a hospital, where surgeons removed the eye.

WRIGHT WILLING

He'd Bring First Airplane Back for U. S. Display.

DAYTON—(U.P.)—Orville Wright, one of the famous brothers who pioneered aviation in this country, has said that he is willing to bring his first successful airplane back from England if the Smithsonian institute will recognize its historical status.

The pioneer plane of Orville and the late Wilbur Wright has been in a London museum since the beginning of a dispute with the Smithsonian institute in 1925.

Orville Wright has asked that the institute "correct records concerning the purported flights at Hammondsport, N. Y., in 1914." A Smithsonian publication credited Samuel Langley with invention of the first plane.

"Those flights were only purported ones and the Smithsonian institute knows today they are erroneous," Wright said. "If the institute will recorrect its records, on that matter, I should be willing to have the plane brought back."

U. S. DELIVERS STAMPED DOLLAR

Girl, 4, Gets 'Cartwheel' Through The Mails.

OMAHA, Neb.—(AP)—Joy Miller, 4, received a silver dollar as a birthday gift from her grandfather, J. E. Thomas of Birmingham, Ala.

Thomas pasted Joy's address on one side of the dollar and a three-cent stamp on the other. Delivery was made promptly.

FRIGHTENS MOTORISTS

MELBOURNE, Australia—(U.P.)—A carload of motorists had the fright of their lives here when, without knowing it, they turned into a road set apart for safety tests. Suddenly a school girl shot out from the side of the road and before they could apply the brakes was run down by their car. To their relief she proved only to be a dummy which had been automatically set loose when they entered the road.

JUST A 'SISSY'?

Turkey Gobbler Hatches 10 of 14 Hen Eggs.

ATTICA—(AP)—Alfred Manlet's turkey gobbler is no sissy, the owner insists, but he's established a reputation for himself by hatching 10 out of 14 hen eggs. Members of the family in this Seneca county village noticed the gobbler gazing intently at a setting hen, so they tried him with a setting of eggs, and he made good.

The judge decided to put him beyond temptation and forgiveness.

PIPE BACKFIRES

And Carnival's Fire Eater Gets Real Taste of Flames.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—(AP)—The wind played a dirty trick on Earl Rogers, 36-year-old professional fire eater.

Rogers was blowing flames through a pipe for amusement of carnival patrons when the wind blew the flames right back at Rogers. Carnival workers smothered the fire and took Rogers to a hospital burned about the face and arms.

WPA to Replace Land Markers In $30,000 Project

A $30,000 WPA project for the replacement of more than 300 land markers in Richland county will be started within the next three weeks, Deputy County Engineer Walter E. Rusk said today.

Designed by Ohio State university engineers to modernize the county's marker system, the project will provide jobs for as many as 30 men and women when it is in full operation, Rusk said.

The county's contribution will be slightly less than $7,000, most of which will be in equipment, materials and transportation facilities.

County land deeds will be examined and cement markers placed at the corners of sections. A bronze plug indicating the number of the section will be placed in the top of the cement post which will stand about six inches above the ground.

A number of the county's markers have been destroyed, often making it necessary to examine old records to find where property lines are, Rusk said.

WHAT ARE YOU DOING FOR IT?

By John Davis, Druggist

When you have a pain here or there what do you do about it?

First, you should be glad you have it, for it's nature's way of "tipping you off" there's mischief in your "innards." Second, you should set about ascertaining the cause.

Usually your own or some friend's conception of the cause influences you to partake of some magic medicine, you or he heard of, for pains seemingly similar.

Perhaps you get along quite favorably for a time, then you and he have to guess again.

Why?

Because nothing has been done that has reached the source of the trouble.

The safe and economical thing to do in such cases—in fact always at the first sign of illness—is to get in touch with a physician. It is his vocation to determine causes and to prescribe the necessary corrective measures.

Then his prescriptions should be expertly compounded in order to produce the desired results.

PAVES CROSSING

Railroad Starts Work on North Main Street Grade.

Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist announced today that the North Main street crossing of the Pennsylvania railroad will be closed to daytime traffic for the next 10 days while workmen are engaged in repaving the grade.

While the construction work is being done, traffic will be detoured over Harker street, Bowman street and Longview avenue. Nist said the railroad has stationed a watchman at the Longview avenue crossing during the daylight hours. Traffic at night will be allowed the use of the crossing.

The railroad's action is the result of a request from city council July 22 asking the company to reconstruct the crossings at North Main, East Fifth, East Fourth, and Orange street.

Other grades will be repaved after work on North Main street is completed.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1938.

There was a time when the geography of Europe could be studied in a school book instead of in a daily newspaper.

The government has no money to pay out in pensions—except as it is supplied out of the earnings of workers.

Any European crisis can at least be depended upon to bring out a lot of unfamiliar words for people to try to pronounce.

These Are Americans By Choice.

WHILE some native-born residents of the United States of America may sometimes entertain doubts as to the advantages of this country over others, there are no such doubts in the minds of those men and women who were born in some other country but who have come here, in good faith, to become naturalized Americans, to abide by the laws of this country and to conduct themselves as good citizens.

Such a group of foreign-born residents of Mansfield and Richland county, who have successfully passed their citizenship examination, met last evening at the American Legion home to receive their certificates of citizenship.

They heard talks on the privileges, duties and responsibilities of American citizenship; they participated in showing respect for the American flag; they joined in singing The Star Spangled Banner, and America; they repeated the pledge of allegiance: "I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the republic for which it stands; one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

For them it was no matter of compulsion. No question of whether or not they should salute the flag entered their minds. They realized only that the country to which they had come offered them opportunities and freedom in religion, thought and speech, that would be denied them in the countries from which they came.

Looking around this assembly and realizing that each of these men and women had studied and prepared for an examination, in order to become an American citizen, it might be wondered if it would not be well to provide for a somewhat similar examination for adults who are Americans by right of birth, and for young people before their graduation from high school, so that everyone might have better opportunity to learn the principles of Americanism before they are lured by the theories of some alien "ism" and attempt to foist it on impressionable illiterates in fundamental Americanism—as is now being done by some teachers in schools and colleges.

When Americanism has been thoroughly taught to all adults and children in the United States there will be no breeding places for such alien "isms" as now find encouragement in ignorance and, at least occasionally, among pedagogical misfits.

Munich Agreement Analyzed.

NO BRIGHT future for Europe's democracies is seen by Spencer Irwin, the Cleveland Plain Dealer's editorial writer on international affairs, who spoke at afternoon and evening meetings in Mansfield yesterday.

Last week's four-power accord at Munich, for the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia, is seen by Mr. Irwin as a long-planned surrender to Hitler, rather than as a triumph in diplomacy for Chamberlain and Daladier.

Beneath the surface of meetings and negotiations was seen a carefully built-up psychology of fear among the people of Great Britain and France, with the saber rattling of Hitler as a part of the scenario which had its beginning last November when Viscount Halifax visited Hitler in Berlin.

Postponement of war, rather than any solution of the problem of maintaining peace in Europe, is seen by Irwin as the outcome of the Munich pact, while he believes that a determined stand by democratic nations would have prevented Hitler from making war to take Sudetenland from the Czechs.

With Hitler casting envious eyes toward Russia's rich Ukraine, and his book, "Mein Kampf," projecting isolation of France as an important part of German foreign policy, the dictator's statement that he has no further territorial demands to make on Europe are not taken seriously by informed observers.

With "The Last of Free Europe" as his subject, Irwin expressed the conviction, "Democracy has already ceased to exist in Europe as an instrument of international policies."

"Is there a chance of changing this condition," was asked. "Yes," he answered, "by getting rid of Chamberlain and Daladier and having the democracies of the world take a firm stand against further aggression of dictators. The United States cannot keep out of war merely by a declaration that it prefers peace."

These views of a close student of international relations are presented as worthy of thoughtful consideration, and also with a hope that readers will gain further enlightenment on European conditions from all reliable sources available.

Tax Collecting Is Big Business.

TAX COLLECTING has become a big business in this country. According to a recent study, the national tax bill has increased 76 per cent in the past six years. Almost 24 per cent of our total national income is today consumed by branches of government. And, believe it or not, there are more than 175,369 taxing bodies in the United States, with an army of 3,000,000 employes.

Needless to say, this legion of tax gatherers doesn't exist simply to mulct the business or the individual with large means, whose salary or income is in the upper income tax brackets. It exists primarily to tax the little fellow—and to tax him deviously, through hidden, indirect levies assessed against every necessity of life.

If you earn $18 a week and own no taxable property, you still pay $112 a year—12 per cent of your hard-earned wages—in taxes. If you are a white-collar worker with a $150 salary you pay $220 a year in taxes—which means, to put it another way, that you work a month and a half for government.

Get over the delusion that the rich pay the tax bill. There aren't enough rich—even if every dime they earned were confiscated by government. In 1937, 70 per cent of all tax receipts represented hidden taxes.

The way Californians respond to visionary pension plans it might seem that climate isn't enough.

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Notes on war. Did you know that a plane could drop tons of bombs on London without passing over the city? It could.

When a bomber "lines up" on its target, it may be traveling 250 miles an hour. With a tail-wind it might be doing 300 or more. Under such conditions a plane 20,000 feet in the air must release its bomb as many as five miles before it gets over the target. At the moment of release, the bomb is traveling at the same speed as the plane. It continues its forward flight while it is descending, following a long, downward curve from the time it leaves the plane until it strikes.

That means that if enemy planes were flying to bomb London, they would have to be shot down three to five miles before they reached the city. Otherwise their bombs would already be on the way down and the planes might have turned back for home without ever having passed over the city.

Bomb After Bomb.

EVERY soldier with a grain of air knowledge knows London could be bombed over and over again in spite of the best defense now available. Planes sweeping in from the North Sea could be over London before counter-attacking planes could get up to fight them.

Shells from modern anti-aircraft guns could reach these planes before they are in position to drop their bombs, even though they may do it five miles out. American three-inch anti-aircraft guns have a vertical range of 30,000 feet, roughly six miles. The range is much greater if the gun is fired at an angle instead of straight up.

But hitting a plane at five miles is a feat. An exploding anti-aircraft shell will spray fragments over a zone as large as a football field. Getting the shell to explode when a plane is in that zone is something else again, but it can be done.

But, on the other hand, it's difficult for a plane four miles up and five miles out to drop a bomb on a specific spot. Even a slight miscalculation of wind direction might make the bomb miss its target a half mile.

Every Londoner knows that a bomb that fails to hit Buckingham palace, a warehouse, or a rail terminal, may land amidst dense throngs in Piccadilly, Soho or Kensington. Although military men doubt that a hard pressed army would waste bombs on civilian populations, a swarm of planes bombing "legitimate" military objectives might be expected to spill many a projectile into teeming London streets. Now you begin to understand the why of gas masks and splinter trenches.

A Deadly New Wrinkle.

DURING the Spanish civil war, Barcelona has been bombed without ever hearing or seeing the planes that did it. . . A France airplane recently skimmed into Barcelona harbor, touched the water long enough to start a torpedo squirming through the waves toward a British freighter, then skimmed over the deck of the doomed ship a moment before the torpedo struck. . . . The ship went down in three minutes. . . . That is something new to think about in warfare. . . . One thing Hitler no doubt realizes, that this time Turkey is friendly toward Britain, which opens the Dardanelles to allow a backdoor attack on Germany.

A CRISIS IN THE ATLAS COMPANY

Preparedness Plans Gain Support

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Tremendously increased appropriations are assured from the next congress for all kinds of preparedness—army ordnance, airplanes, cargo ships, fighting ships, tanks, motorized equipment—everything conceivable that would be needed in wartime.

There is an extraordinary unanimity of sentiment about this on Capitol Hill. President Roosevelt will have no trouble getting all the money he may ask for the army, navy, marine corps, cargo ship construction, and for readying private plants so that they could turn out war equipment at short notice. For instance, the little matter of educational orders is indicative of the general line of thought.

For years Britain has followed this practice of educational orders. The underlying idea is to have as many factories and plants as possible ready to turn to government work in time of emergency with no delay. Getting ready to produce many types of military equipment is a long, tedious process. It involves getting the proper jigs and dies. It involves training men to do an entirely new job. During the World war the United States had a terrible time producing rifles in quantity, though our ordnance officers thought that in the Springfield they had the best rifle in the world, so that no element of experimentation—as was the case with the Liberty motors—was involved.

In an ordinary government contract, given to a private manufacturer, the government of course calls for bids and gives the work to the bidder offering to produce at the lowest price, assuming of course that the bidder is demonstrably reliable.

BUT in educational orders the plan is exactly the reverse. The object is different. If what is wanted immediately is 1,000 machine guns, for instance, normally the manufacturer offering to produce them at the lowest price would get the contract. But under the educational order system the government's purpose would best be served by giving 20 different manufacturers each a contract for 50 machine guns.

Then, if war or an emergency should develop three months later, there would be twenty manufacturers who had found out how to make the type of machine guns desired. Expansion is not difficult where the exact needs are familiar, and the workers know how to do the job. Each worker, for example, can be put to training others.

But despite the obvious military advantage of this system of educational orders, not until right now has the United States government ever employed it. And this although the plan has been advocated for ten years and its good results in Britain have been well known.

It is the lack of opposition to preparedness expenditures, however, which is the really startling change. Even the old "Little Navy" crowd of the Middle West, to whom forty millions for a battleship meant just that much less for local pork, is on the preparedness side now.

EVERY variety of liberal and progressive wants the United States to be ready. The war in Spain started this transformation in thinking by these groups. Lots of former pacifists gloried in their friends going to Spain to fight for the "liberal" side. Up to then, most of the leftists had thought of army and navy spending as evil from two angles—waste of money and providing the Tories with a weapon to crush the plain people.

But with the United States so distinctly on the side of democracies as against Facism, the picture is very different.

(Copyright, 1938.)

Timely Editorial

Yes, It's Wonderful.

There is a correct philosophy for Americans in what Steve Vasilakos, peanut vendor near the White House, says about conditions here and those abroad. Steve has been naturalized, and therefore has the right to speak as an American.

He points out that "over there" the "big shots" are red in the face, but here in America "we ain't." The gates to the White House are open, within reason and safety, to the big and little alike. Steve can go in and so can the rest of us. He thinks it's wonderful, and it is.

We have no fear here of the "determination of minorities," no reason to be afraid that some nation that borders ours will take a slice of our territory, no possibility that Michigan, Texas or Wyoming will hold a plebiscite to determine the allegiance of the majorities of their populations, no linguistic, religious or other clashes. We are all Americans, and we are determined to keep America what it is.—Ohio State Journal.

As Others See It

Discovered!

As the original Townsend Plan called for $200 a month, this $30-every-Thursday is plainly a machination of the hidebound conservatives.—Detroit News

Eventually, Why Not Now?

Eventually this country, searching high and low for a remedy for what ails it, will have to get over the idea that old-fashioned work is too drastic.—Toledo Blade.

Why Inflammation Is Good Friend.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE HAVE been studying the fundamental tissue changes that occur in the body in diseased states. These fundamental processes are inflammation, embolism, hemorrhage, degeneration, hypertrophy, atrophy, immunity and tumor formation.

The process which occurs most often is inflammation. You never scratch your finger, or bang your shin against a chair, or suffer the bite of a mosquito, or burn your skin, even so much as an area the size of the head of a pin, or have a pimple, or a boil, or a cut, or a drop of carbolic on you, but what inflammation sets in. You probably never say "ouch" that the same thing doesn't occur.

Please also regard the process of inflammation with favor and gratitude. It is your best friend. All the aids, like poultices and hot water bottles and antiseptics and salves, are simply aids to make it more efficient. If you had no process of inflammation in your system, they would not do a bit of good. Without it you would be a kind of Humpty-Dumpty person and any injury would be your last.

Inflammation is generally defined as the sum of the processes occurring after injury or insult to the tissues. Insult includes invasion of bacteria. As any one can see on his own persons, the symptoms of inflammation are pain, swelling, redness and heat.

The cause of these symptoms is easy to understand when we know the actions that the different tissue cells undergo in the process. As soon as any injury or infection occurs in any tissue, the blood vessels in the immediate neighborhood begin to enlarge. Why this should be no one knows. It is one of the most fascinating and mysterious adjustments of Nature. No pharmacologist with any of his drugs could make them do that. And, thank heaven, no pharmacologist with any of his drugs can stop them for very long.

It is one of the beneficent acts of Nature, because those dilated vessels bring cells to kill off the invaders and cells to mend the breach. The dilated vessels also cause the pain, but even this is a good thing, because it keeps the part still and allows the process to go on in peace.

These friendly cells soon leave the dilated blood vessels and go out into the tissue spaces around the injury. Here they kill off bacteria if any are present, or begin to throw out strands to bridge the gap. Some carry away debris. The thing is carried out with all the efficiency of an engineering construction.

I have described a very simple kind of inflammation, but the more complicated ones are simply elaborations of this.

Is there anything that can be done to aid the process? Yes, a few things. Rest of the part is the most important. If you had a bridge under construction you wouldn't expect a few earthquakes in the neighborhood to help. Keeping a superficial wound covered and using antiseptics is helpful. Heat or cold, either one, are comforting and do not interfere with the process. Whether a hot water bag or an ice cap makes no difference. The physiological action is the same.

Ohio Anecdotes

Here She Comes!

First train service between Columbus and Cleveland was made possible through efforts of Alfred Kelly, an outstanding Columbus business man, who promoted the railroad and personally drove the last spike into the final rail at Iberia, at midnight, Feb. 17, 1851.

So excited was Kelly in his achievement that he drove the first spike upside down. A crowd of witnesses from the two cities to be connected laughed at Kelley's error. But when he drove the second spike in upside down, the crowd was hilarious. Kelly finally got one in correctly, and the railroad was officially completed.

A message sent to the two principal cities read: "The locomotive has just passed through." It contained the president and directors of the road.

A Farmer's Diary

After-School Appetites.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE old sweet apple tree has only a few large, mellow apples left. They dangle from the ends of branches, on high limbs, and a small boy cannot reach them without a club of a ten-foot pole.

I watched my girl and boy come walking home from school. They left the bus at the end of a long lane, and sauntered slowly, empty dinner pails in hand, until they came in sight of home. Then the same idea struck them both at once, and they ran, set the lunch boxes down without ceremony upon the step, and raced off across the garden to the apple tree.

They found two clubs and threw them at the high-hung fruit. The aim was poor. The apples clung sturdily, the last hardy survivors of many summer storms. It took some minutes before the brother and sister succeeded in knocking two big golden spheres to the ground. Then they sat upon a nearby log and sank their teeth into their prizes, and their shoe toes into the loose, dark, mellow earth.

The autumn sun shone warm. A breeze was blowing. Through a neighbor's field a corn binder made its rounds, leaving a bare swath, and rows of fallen sheaves. The fragrant odors of crumbling wood, of ripened corn and mellow apples stole into their senses.

The children ate until their booty had vanished, and their hunger was appeased. They reveled in the warmth of the late sun that saturated everything with ember glory. They drank the luscious flavor of autumn in the country, even as they ate the last of the apples from the old tree.

I know. For I remember, forty years ago, how good the apples tasted after school. Times may have changed, but apples haven't—nor the appetites of country children. And memories of autumn days, long country lanes, and sweet ripe fruit, clubbed from a high old tree, are things a boy and girl cannot outgrow—nor buy when they are old.

Young America Says—

Dust Bowl Lands . . . Dust Bowl Lives.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

A "RIGHT GUY" for sure, that friend of mine—Ted Malone. Wager no one ever yet listened in to one of his radio broadcasts without being the friendlier for it . . . and healed of some hurt or hate.

Takes more than a swell voice and slick copy to turn that trick, as many a smart air artist has found to his grief. Has to come from the heart, not just through the mike. And it does—with Ted. Perhaps he has been through some raw deals himself. However he acquired it, he certainly has the low-down on the human heart.

There was that play he did recently, the one on "Soil Erosion versus Soul Erosion"—did you hear it? I didn't, worse luck! Don't even know what he said. But I heard the theme, and, knowing how many would need it, Ted said I could take it and pass it along as I pleased. Nothing I'd like better! Just happens I knew those dust bowl lands myself before they ever made headlines . . . knew them before the roar of the buffalo hoofs and the answering roar of the grass had quite died away.

That grass! My father struggled through it as a ragged kid in the Dakotas, with the surge of it breaking like surf along his pinto's neck, and the roots of it clenched a yard deep in the heart of that teeming rock soil. Such crops as those first settlers reaped from the clearing of soil. Incredible mountains of fat, golden grain. A wonder of turnips and beets, such bounty as never was esen. (If you've a liking for vital adventure, read the book that another friend wrote of the breaking of that same wild earth . . . "FREE LAND" by Rose Wilder Lane. Gorgeous drama!)

And so, hour after hour, by the glow of a coal-oil lamp, my father would be telling us of the marvel of those days. Then, always, he would shake his head and mutter —"But they'd better beware! It's a risky thing, stripping soil bare of its covering like that, robbing it of its under pinning, leaving it open and loose to that hell of wind and sun. They'll be sorry some day . . . sorry!"

Now we know just how sorry they are . . . with Dust Bowl destitution screaming from every front page and Dust Bowl refugees crawling in an endless trail. Bad Business it has proved, indeed, to rob that soil of the roots that held it together . . . and the webbed stalks and leaves which protected it from the fury of the elements. Yes, they raised Cain—and plenty—those ambitious pioneers with their greed for profit and freedom, and their reckless defiance of the rules their fathers had known

But the soil isn't the only thing that goes haywire if you strip it of its bonds. It's as reckless a thing to take the ties from a soul . . . leave it unrooted . . . too free. SOIL EROSION . . . SOUL EROSION. Nothing to make the prairie "stay put" if you rob it of cover and root. Away it goes, mile upon mile, under the scourge of the wind. NOTHING CAN SAVE IT UNTIL WE REPLACE THOSE LOST ROOTS

Nothing either to make a soul "stay put" if you rob it of its root and shelter of law and custom, pride and faith, which once held it firm and productive. America's Dust Bowl soil is a dreadful sight these days—sterile acres, gaunt and gutted. But there's a far more tragic sight in America's Dust Bowl Souls . . . in spirits gaunt and gutted by lack of the old, safe stays.

A home . . . a job . . . an aim. Something to live for . . . something to love . . . something to believe in . . . these were the things which once rooted American life. But, little by little, we stripped these things away. Upset the old order . . . challenged the old traditions . . . wrecked the old shelters . . . to serve our insatiable ambition and greed. Found freedom—yes. BUT WITH THE FREEDOM CAME STORM . . . AND HORROR AND HUNGER AND HELL!

Gutted soils . . . gutted souls. Rootless acres . . . rootless lives. Nothing can save them until we replace those lost roots.

MONEY CANNOT SAVE DRIFTING LIVES. REGIMENTATION CANNOT SAVE THEM. SOMETHING TO LIVE FOR . . . SOMETHING TO LOVE . . . SOMETHING TO BELIEVE IN . . . THIS IS THEIR ONLY HOPE.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—That was a startling bulletin in the newspapers the other day—the one telling that Thomas Wolfe was dead. The doctors said that this young novelist died of "acute cerebral infection," but to any one who has read "The Story of a Novel" the impression remains that Thomas Wolfe was a tired young man, so tired that he could not hope ever to become fully rested again.

He wrote this "explanation" after "Of Time and the River" had become such a tremendous hit, and if ever an Iliad was set down this was it. While writing this novel Wolfe became so exhausted that he could neither eat nor sleep. To read of his struggles is literally to share them:

"I WROTE at times," he said, "without belief that I would ever finish, with nothing in me but black despair, and yet I wrote and wrote and could not give up writing. And it seemed that despair was the very goad that urged me on, that made me write even when I had no belief that I would ever finish.

"It seemed to me that my life in Brooklyn (Note: Wolfe lived there a while and it was there that "Of Time and the River" was written) although I had been there only two and a half years, went back through centuries of time, through ocean depths of black and bottomless experience which no ordinary scale of hours would even measure . . . At the end of a savage day of labor my mind was still blazing with its effort, could by no opiate of reading, poetry, music, alcohol, or any pleasure, be put to rest. I was unable to sleep, unable to subdue the tumult of these creative energies, and as a result of this condition, for three years I prowled the street, explored the swarming web of the million-footed city and came to know it as I had never done before. It was a black time in the history of the nation, a black time in my own life and, I suppose, it is but natural that my own memory of it now should be a pretty grim and painful one.

"EVERYWHERE around me, during those years, I saw the evidence of an incalculable ruin and suffering. My own people, the members of my own family, had been ruined, had lost all material wealth and the accumulation of a lifetime in what was called the 'depression' . . .

"The early winter of 1933 arrived and with it, it seemed to me, the final doom of an abysmal failure. I still wrote and wrote, but blindly, hopelessly, like an old horse who trots around in the unending circle of a treadmill and knows no other end nor purpose for his life than this. If I slept at night, it was to sleep an unceasing nightmare of blazing visions that swept across my fevered and unresting mind. And when I woke, it was to wake exhausted, not knowing anything but work, lashing myself on into a hopeless labor, and so furious at it through the day; and then night again, a frenzied prowling of a thousand streets, and so to bed and sleepless sleep again, the nightmare pageantry to which my consciousness lay chained a spectator."

There are 93 pages in this recital of physical and mental anguish, and it seems to me that no man could experience such travail without sustaining lasting hurt.

No doubt "acute cerebral infection" was the direct cause of Thomas Wolfe's death, but it goes deeper than that. I think he was just awfully, awfully tired.

PENSION SCRAP DRAWS FIRE OF G.O.P. SPEAKERS

'Shameful Practices' Blasted by Mrs. Metcalf as Women Meet at Marietta.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Arthur L. Limbach, Democratic state chairman, today charged John W. Bricker, the GOP gubernatorial nominee, was dilatory in his duty as attorney general in 1936 if statements contained in a radio addres by Bricker are true, Limbach said: "Bricker suddenly seeks to don the mantle of political chastity. His insincerity is revealed by his own words. If Bricker knows now about the graft he alleges to now exist and to have existed in 1936, then as attorney general he knew it to have existed in 1936."

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Addressing a conference of 800 Republican women leaders and workers here today, Mrs. Xilpha R. Metcalf of Marietta declared, "the waste and inefficiency, the personal favoritism and the shameful practices" in the old-age pension department must stop.

Mrs. Metcalf said the present state administration had allowed the source of old-age pension revenues—the liquor department—"to become the 'grab bag' of the greatest band of political racketeers in the history of organized government."

She said $1,260,000 in liquor revenues had been spent during three and a half years, in maintaining a hundred liquor inspectors whom she asserted were not needed in the enforcement division.

Proposes 'Cleanup.'

John W. Bricker, gubernatorial candidiate, said he proposed if elected, to give the state government a "housecleaning" by "sweeping out the rubbish." He said he had no idea of getting rid of all state employes.

Robert A. Taft, senatorial candidate, talked to the women on organizing for the approaching election. State Chairman E. D. Schorr also discussed organization.

Mrs. Bricker was to be introduced by Mrs. Myers Y. Cooper, wife of the former governor, and Mrs. Taft by Mrs. Frank B. Willis widow of the late senator.

Declaring that the "real issue" of the campaign was good government, Bricker asked in a statewide radio address last night:

"How can the Democratic party give us good government when it is still dominated by the same old bosses and when it is knuckling down to radicals and labor racketeers?"

He charged that Charles Sawyer, his opponent, was seeking the support of state employes "who willingly compromise with conscience for political or financial advantage."

Sawyer was in Cincinnati for a rally last night and will remain there today before beginning a tour of southern counties.

Referring to the current dispute between the administration of Gov. Martin L. Davey and the federal social security board over the Ohio pension system, Bricker said.

"If my opponent rushes to Washington on the pretense that he will save your pension payments, do not forget it was his friends in Washington who cut off payments.

"This (threat to withdraw U. S funds) is strictly a political move. . . . There are still courts in America that will not permit any gang of political opportunists to play upon your misery for votes."

JEWISH HOLIDAY

Special Yom Kippur Services to Be Held in City.

Yom Kippur, the day of atonement, most sacred and important holy day of the Jewish calendar, will be observed as a day of fasting and prayer by Jews here and throughout the nation Wednesday.

Observance will begin Tuesday at sundown, and will continue until sundown Wednesday. Services here will be conducted by Rabbi D. Rub at 6 p. m. Tuesday and 8 a. m. Wednesday at Moose hall, North Walnut street

Yom Kippur is the last of 10 high holidays, and according to tradition, the day of judgment.

An important part of the services is the recital of the ritual handed down by the 5000-year-old tradition. A sacrificial day in ancient days, the sacrifice was abolished after the destruction of the temple in Jerusalem and the service became a spiritual ceremony for the individual.

HE 'SEES' WITH EYE OF RABBIT

Laborer Can See Dimly Following Delicate Operation.

HAGERSTOWN, Md. — (AP) — Frank L. Hoffman, 61, a laborer blind since last spring, can see dimly today—but whether his improvement is permanent depends on whether his body can keep alive the eye of a rabbit which was transplanted to his eye socket last week.

Dr. Paul N. Fleming, who performed the delicate surgery last week, said Hoffman could distinguish between light and dark already. But a Johns Hopkins specialist who preferred not to be named said the similar operations had been done in the past and the cornea of the rabbit "invariably" became opaque in a few weeks or months.

QUOTA PASSED

Chamber of Commerce to End Member Drive Tomorrow.

The Chamber of Commerce's Step Forward with Mansfield campaign, a variation of the annual fall round-up, will swing into the final day tomorrow already over the quota of 40 new members, Paul Williams, secretary-manager, announced today.

Judge C. H. Huston, president of the Chamber, said today that the membership campaign this fall has been one of the most "satisfying" in the history of the organization.

"The response on the part of the public is most gratifying," Huston said, "and the results will enable the Chamber of Commerce to carry on its community building program in Mansfield."

Officer's 'Hunch' A Good One; Gets Two Confessions

E. C. Fuller, police identification expert, had a hunch today; he played it and won.

Possibly it was because of his 16 years in dealing with fugitives while employed at the Ohio State reformatory, that propmted him to put two train riders apprehended here in the class of "fugitives."

Fuller acted on the hunch and questioning of Frank Williams, 32, and David Johnson, 20, brought confessions that they had fled from the state penal farm at Breathsville, Maryland.

The pair Saturday was fined $5 and costs each when they pleaded guilty to train riding before Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch. They were arrested by E. J. White, Pennsylvania railroad detective.

Fuller said the pair admitted that they had been going under aliases since they escaped. He said Williams confessed that his name was Edward Doster, whose home was in Delmar, Delaware and Johnson said his name was Jewell Redmond and that he had lived in Arlington, Va.

While Fuller awaited a report from the FBI in Washington on the fingerprints of the pair, a radio message to the institution disclosed that officers had been dispatched to return the pair.

NLRB EXAMINER OPENS HEARING

gaining agency with an industrial firm in the county.

Hearing of similar charges against the Ohio Brass company was held here several weeks ago.

Testimony of the witnesses for the labor union and the defendant firm is taken at the hearings and submitted to the National Labor Relations board at Washington for a decision. Counsel said a decision in the Ideal Electric company case probably would not be handed down for several weeks.

K. L. Berry, president of Local 705, of the electrical workers' union, and Otto Lommatzsch, financial secretary of the organization, had been examined on the witness stand at noon today, as Atty. Max W. Johnston, Cleveland, counsel for the CIO, sought to prove that the Mansfield CIO affiliate has a majority representation in the Ideal Electric plant.

Lommatzsch testified that Local 705 has 79 paid-up members in the plant, but when counsel for the Ideal Electric company called for the secretary's record book as evidence, Atty. Johnston refused to present it, contending that the book was "irrelevant."

Examiner Powell took under consideration the defense counsel's motion to require the union representatives to submit the books showing actual paid-up membership.

Berry testified that company officials had refused to "bargain in a bona fide manner with union representatives to adjust grievances."

In its complaint, the CIO unit contends that an intra-company organization, known as the Ideal Electric Co-operative association, "tends to lead to labor disputes with union representatives."

SEES WORLD SERIES WARS HELP BRING PEACE TO 'PSYCHOPEDS'

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO—These world series wars bring peace to the "psychopeds."

This may sound like a paradox—what with ultra-rabid baseball fans blowing off emotional steam by crushing derbies, throwing scorecards and cushions and calling umpires anything from "robbers" to "dirty bums" — but it's true, nonetheless, Dr. Robert N. McMurry, psychologist said today.

A "psychoped," said Dr. McMurry by way of definition, is a person who has never entirely outgrown his capacity for adolescent enthusiasms and rivalries, a person who lets his emotions run away with him—in his domestic and political life as well as in the sphere of sports.

Noting published reports that 10,000,000 fans paid their way into major league baseball parks this season, Dr. McMurry, an executive of the psychological corporation, discussed the emotional benefits which, he said "psychopeds" get out of this business of deciding the world's baseball champion.

A man who has been reprimanded by his boss, Dr McMurry said, may leave the office in a dangerous mood and, if he goes home, is likely to take his anger out on his wife. "But if he spends an afternoon at the ball game shouting at the umpire and fighting with other fans, he is going to work all of this hostility out of his system," he said. "As a result when he gets home he may be an entirely different man, a sweet, amiable and loving husband.

"But this capacity for blowing off steam has even a broader significance. It may even be said that baseball keeps America out of war.

"In central Europe they have no sports compared to baseball, no harmless emotional safety valves for the people of these countries. As a result many of them take out their aggressions in politics. They vent their rages on minority groups."

GETS APPROVAL

Jury Awards Ex-Westinghouse Employe Compensation.

The county petit jury, hearing its first case in the September court term, late yesterday awarded Ernest Stafford, former Westinghouse employe, the right to participate in state industrial compensation.

Stafford, who brought an action against the industrial commission after it discontinued payments to him, contended that injuries he suffered in 1926 while employed at the Mansfield Westinghouse plant permanently incapacitated him for work.

The industiral commission halted his payments two years ago on the grounds that his condition was not the result of the accident. The industrial commission immediately filed a motion for a new trial after the jury's verdict was returned yesterday.

With the other cases on the week's schedule either settled or continued, the jury was dismissed last night until next week.

BRITAIN, FRANCE ACT FOR MORE PEACE 'DEALS'

Powers Seeking to Stabilize Peace; France Sends Envoy to Italy in First Step.

theory that they can live side by side in peace if pressing problems —Spain's civil war is foremost— can be worked out in peace.

Both Germany and Italy sought in a cautious manner to support that theory and thus to aid Chamberlain and Daladier in fighting off critics at home who charged they had given in to the dictators —and that the future would call for more giving in without getting anything in return.

From Berlin there came persistent indications that Hitler would be prepared later to cooperate in working out four-power agreements of friendship and in certain disarmament measures. In many British circles this was received with great reserve and reminders that Hitler in the past had promised not to seize Austria —but did—and not to violate Czechoslovakia's sovereignty—but did.

Chamberlain, however, refused to abandon his belief that a working agreement for peace is possible. At the same time, he took out insurance that Hitler would keep his word. He announced in the house of commons that Britain would press ahead with her vast re-armament program so that, if another war crisis comes, she will not be placed in deadly fear of what might happen to London if thousands of German bombing planes were sent across the channel.

Meanwhile, along the world front:—

China—Japanese advance units reported they had reached a point only 45 miles from Hankow in an isolated "sneak" maneuver.

Spain—Nationalist planes aroused resentment in Loyalist Spain by a "bread bombardment" of Madrid intended to show the population that food was plentiful in rebel territory. There followed air raids with bombs at Barcelona where British ships suffered damage. Fighting continued intense along the Ebro front, where the Insurgents reported gains.

Hungary — The Budapest government renewed its demands on Czechoslovakia for immediate settlement of its minority claims.

Poland—Reports were current in Warsaw that Czechoslovakia might be forced to surrender the Ruthenian district to Hungary in order that the Polish frontier would touch the Hungarian border and form a barrier against Russia.

Hungarians, Slovaks Still Czech Problems.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia—(U.P.)—As more German troops moved into the Sudetenland today the harried Czechoslovak government struggled with two immediate problems—those of the Hungarian and Slovak minorities.

Charged with "delaying tactics" by the Hungarians, the government was reported to have received a new note from Budapest saying that negotiations regarding the future of the Hungarian minority must begin within a few days. Hungary demanded guarantees that the negotiations would be carried out smoothly and quietly.

As the government cared for the thousands of Czech refugees who fled to the capital from the Sudetenland, it was reported reliably that former Premier Milan Hodza already had undertaken negotiations with leaders of the Slovak People's party.

Formerly led by the late Mgr. Andrej Hlinka, the Slovak party has repeatedly demanded autonomy. The government made clear today that it was willing to grant the demand within the framework of the Czechoslovak republic.

'Knew I Would Come,' Hitler Tells Sudetens.

KARLSBAD (KARLOVY VARY), SUDETENLAND—(AP)—Chancellor Adolf Hitler, making a triumphal tour of his newly annexed Sudeten territory, told an electrified Sudeten German audience today "I didn't know how I would sometime get here, but I did know that I would come."

Speaking only a short distance from where Sudeten Leader Konrad Henlein last April 24 formulated his famous eight demands, the fuehrer said:

"For 20 years you remained faithful to your Volkstrum (racial nationalism).

"And for 20 years I remained faithful to my belief in the German people.

"So we both find each other in our common racial community, in our greater reich which nobody will ever be able to destroy again."

Thousands of "heils" by the enthusiastic crowd punctuated the fuehrer's speech.

"We have every reason to be proud of this great German reich, whose fuehrer I am," he continued.

"And this Germany is just as proud of you Sudeten Germans. In this hour we can do nothing else than think about our eternal German people and our German reich."

The streets before the theater where he spoke briefly were jammed with enthusiastic Sudeten Germans, gathered to welcome their fuehrer.

'Suicide Wave' Hits Areas, London Hears.

LONDON —(INS)— Hundreds of families in the Sudetenland trerritories occupied by German troops are reported to have committed suicide, the London News Chronicle stated today in a dispatch from Prague.

The report asserted that refugees were fleeing from "Sudeten Nazi terror."

The London Daily Telegraph, in a Prague dispatch, said that a wave of suicides, similar to that which occurred in Austria, after Hitler annexed that country, has begun in Czechoslovakia.

According to the Telegraph, the Czech victims include a well-known democratic physician, Dr. Wolgang Sabbath of Staab, who administered fatal injections to his wife, two daughters and himself.

New Era Beginning, Daladier Declares.

PARIS—(AP)—Premier Daladier told the chamber of deputies that his meeting with Reichsfuehrer Hitler at Munich last week marked the beginning of an era of friendly relations between France and Germany.

The premier, reading his ministerial declaration on the four-power agreement over Czechoslovakia, declared France had decided to send an ambassador to Rome to resume cordial relations with Italy.

France has not had an ambassador in Rome since 1936, due to her refusal to recognize the Italian conquest of Ethiopia.

While Daladier started reading the declaration to a jammed chamber of deputies, his finance minister, Paul Marchandeau, said in the corridor that the government insists that parliament vote it full financial and economic decree powers tonight.

New Attacks Made On Chamberlain.

LONDON —(AP)— An angry opposition today renewed its assault on Prime Minister Chamberlain's "peace with honor" Munich accord in the second day of vital debate on foreign policy as triumphant Nazi legions occupied further Sudeten areas of Czechoslovakia.

The attack was renewed by Clement R. Attlee, leader of the labor opposition, with a private notice of an "urgent" question to the prime minister.

Attlee demanded that debate not be shut off before the "back benchers"—the rank and file of the house—had an opportunity to speak. He also urged that questions concerning Britain's guarantee of Czechoslovakia's new frontiers and a British loan to Prague should be threshed out thoroughly.

The debate was expected to continue through a third day. It opened yesterday with a bitter attack on the four-power Munich accord for Czechoslovakia's dismemberment by Alfred Duff Cooper, who resigned as first lord of the admiralty because the Munich terms "stuck in my throat," and Chamberlain's spirited defense.

TYDINGS SAYS HE SPENT $88,814

Reports $11,000 Deficit In Drive For U. S. Senate Seat.

BALTIMORE—(AP)—The cost of Sen. Millard E. Tydings' Democratic primary victory over administration-sponsored Rep. David J. Lewis was spread on circuit court records today—$88,814, with $11,931 of it a deficit.

The report was filed as required by Maryland election law.

The report filed by Herbert R. O'Conor, who won the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, showed his campaign cost $69,263, with $6,798 of that a deficit.

are good people, you have obeyed our laws and conformed to the requirements of citizens," he said. "You may still love your native land, but you owe your allegiance now to this country of your adoption," he added.

G. J. Kochenderfer, editor of The News-Journal, said "there should be no attempt to change the American form of government by the methods of anarchism just because you don't agree with it."

He pointed out that the American democratic system provides an opportunity for citizens to change public officials and even the form of government by vote.

Other numbers on the program, which was arranged by Mrs. E. C. Flory and Miss Margery Ludwig of the American Legion auxiliary, included vocal solos by Lawrence Bergstrom, accompanied at the piano by Miss Louise Krause, and an eccentric dance by Miss Jean Schill. Miss Helen Scott was at the piano.

OK'S PURCHASE OF NEW CHASSIS

Bids had been received last month, city officials said, but were held up until the city was sure of a contract from the township trustees for fire protection from the city fire department. Although no township trustees were present at the meeting last night, city officials said "they were sure" that a contract, already approved by the council, would be accepted at a special trustees' meeting Wednesday night for $800.

Charge of 'Dirty Politics' Renewed by Governor in New Defy on Pensions.

lotment would be for October, November and December.

Governor Davey reiterated the efforts he said had been made before the primary to comply with federal requirements, but insisted there had been lack of co-operation by federal board representatives.

"You have been playing politics with this situation, and this is the only point I want to emphasize. There never was anything which could not be worked out harmoniously, if you had shown the official courtesy of bringing it to my attention, instead of resorting to dirty politics so close to the primary election that there was no chance to answer," Davey wrote.

Duffy said he would not represent the state unless Davey could "satisfactorily defend his refusal to comply with federal regulations."

Edgar S. Byers, Cleveland attorney and special counsel for the attorney general in the Cleveland Lakefront reclamation case, sought a writ of mandamus in the supreme court yesterday, demanding that Davey, Mrs. Margaret Allman, welfare director; and Wray Bevans, newly-appointed pension director, be forced to fulfill the board's requirements so that Ohio would not lose federal pension money.

Labor Federation Weighs Demands for RFC 'Shakeup'

SEEKS OUSTER OF CHAIRMAN, OTHER HEADS

A. F. of L. Resolution Hits Funds Given 'Chiselling Exploiters of Labor.'

(By International News Service)

HOUSTON, Tex.—Removal of Chairman Jesse Jones of the RFC and of other officers of that lending agency, was asked in a resolution taken under consideration by the American Federation of Labor today.

Sponsored by the Brotherhood of Operative Potters and already given approval by heads of the union label trades of the A. F. of L., the measure was referred to the resolutions committee as the federation's 58th annual convention entered its second session today.

Jones owns a newspaper here, and is reputedly the largest property holder in the thriving city ot Houston. He came under a departmental censure before the federation's convention in a resolution which bluntly accused the Reconstruction Finance corporation of lending money to non-union industry.

Blasts at 'Chiselers.'

Signed by powerful officers of the A. F. of L. the resolution declared that the RFC has loaned money to "chiselling exploiters of labor," and called on congress to put a stop to such practices. Responsibility for this policy was laid squarely on the shoulders of President Roosevelt in the resolution, which said, in part:

"There is only one person responsible for the Reconstruction Finance corporation policy of financing exploiters of labor and the policy of our present government.

"Seemingly there is no governmental agency sufficiently interested in protecting the wage, hour and working condition standards built up by the national and international unions to whom those most vitally affected might appeal.

"There is a vital need that some way must be found to set aside this present system of loaning public government monies to the chiselling exploiters of labor who seek to lower the none-to-high standards which now prevail.

"Therefore be it resolved that this convention direct our officers to request President Roosevelt to replace the present officials of the RFC with others who will not loan government funds to chiselling exploiters of labor, and failing to secure the removal of these officials, that our officers be directed to seek legislation which will prevent them from securing loans of public money."

Tells of Battle With Whales on Junk Trip to U. S.

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— There were times, Dr. E. Allen Petersen admitted today, when he and his crew wished they had never started their 85-day crossing of the Pacific in a frail Chinese junk.

Refreshed after the first night in nearly three months spent in a bed which remained horizontal, instead of "bobbing around like a cork," the 37-year-old osteopath who turned sea captain recalled experiences of his voyage from the Orient to Southern California —much of it spent battling whales and fog.

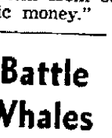
Dr. Petersen, with his bride, Tane, California-born Japanese, consummated a long ambition when he brought the 36-foot junk Hummel-Hummel into San Pedro yesterday with two Russian youths, Nick Permanoff and Victor Ermeloff, as crewmen.

The whales were present during most of the voyage.

"They were 70 or 80 feet long—twice as long as the boat.

"We suddenly realized one day that we were surrounded by six of them. They were diving under the craft and we were afraid they would tip it over. They gave us some bad moments before deciding to swim away."

Welcome To—



A son, born to Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Stahl, 140 Blanche street, at General hospital this morning.

If you have a secret ambition to see yourself in the movies—here's your chance. T. J. Carroll, president of National Films, together with several cameramen and sound trucks are in Mansfield to make sound movies of points of interest in the city. Pictures will be taken of all the city departments, of Kiwanis, Rotary and other service clubs, schools and students and prominent citizens. The picture, entitled "Around Town, Your Town, Mansfield," will include movies of the opening of the new Park theater here on Sept. 15, and will be shown at that theater when completed.

Any person who can pick 30 bushels of apples in four hours establishes some kind of record, but Wade Culler, West Fourth street, who did the trick, insists it was an easy job. The apples averages a pound and a quarter in weight and nearly 13 inches around and it don't take many of them to fill a basket, Culler explains. They were picked in the orchard of Don Williams, Park avenue west road.

A lot of people claim the title of champion "attender" of ball games, but W. W. Blauser, assistant principal at John Simpson Junior high school, is believed to be the champion "non-attender" among persons associated with the school. Blauser came to Mansfield in 1925, saw his first game here in 1926 and never saw another until last Saturday when he and his two sons attended the game at Stadium field. He went then, he says, only because his boys wanted him to go. All of which would indicate that the assistant principal isn't a football fan.

State Treasurer Clarence H. Among the hundreds of "national weeks" you've probably never heard that this is National Letter Writing Week. Even Postmaster Herman Homberger is a little vague as to the activities that are to be associated with it. But he's sure of the purpose. "Guess everyone is supposed to write extra letters to friends and relatives so that there will be an increased postal revenue this week." And if you are all caught up on your correspondence, you can always write a letter to yourself.

After everything was signed a high wind came along and blew down the chimney. No damage was done.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

DAUGHTER SAYS SHE FIRED GUN DURING QUARREL

Angry Parent Threatened to Harm Her Mother, Sheriff Told by Accused.

BULLETIN

NEW LEXINGTON — (INS) — The shooting of 63-year-old John Annon by his daughter, Virginia, 18, was described as "justifiable homicide" today by Prosecutor T. B. Williams after the girl related how she fired at close range to protect her mother.

(By Associated Press)

NEW LEXINGTON — Virginia Annon, a pretty 18-year-old brunet, waited in jail today while Perry county authorities checked her story that she shot and killed her 63-year-old father to protect her mother.

Sheriff James Adrain said that John Annon was shot and killed with a rifle in his home at nearby Crooksville late yesterday and that Virginia told him she shot when her father attacked Mrs. Annon after a bitter argument.

'I Couldn't Stand Quarrels.'

"I couldn't stand the quarreling any longer, and when he went toward mother I picked up a rifle and shot," the sheriff quoted the girl as saying.

Annon was a coal miner and pottery worker, but had been out of work for five years and depending on his eight children for support, Adrain reported.

The girl said that the quarrel began when Annon became angry because his "allowance" was not increased and he engaged in a heated argument with Mrs. Annon.

Coroner William J. Moodie said he investigated the case last night but returned no verdict, and Prosecutor T. B. Williams asserted that Virginia was being held without charge pending an inquiry.

Virginia was graduated from Crooksville high school last spring.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Why Does Mr. Ickes Get Free Medical Service at U. S. Naval Hospital?

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes entered the United States Naval hospital in Washington on June 1, 1937. Secretary Ickes gets $15,000 a year plus the use of the customary limousine assigned to each cabinet member. He is a man of considerable private wealth.

The newspaper announcement said Mr. Ickes entered the Naval hospital for examination for a stomach ailment and for a rest. He returned to his desk July 6, but whether he spent the entire time from June 1 to July 6 in the Naval hospital and just how much service and medicine he received is "nobody's business" in the judgment of Mr. Archibald Oden.

You may be forgiven for not knowing Mr. Archibal Oden. Mr. Oden is the secretary to the secretary of the navy and has taken it upon himself to decide what the taxpayers may know about the extent of their generosity to well-paid and independently wealthy politicians. He says it is "nobody's business," and so to hell with you, you back-stabbing copperhead and Tory.

The charge for hospitalization is $3.75 a day at the Naval hospital. It includes all normal hospital services and some that are not ordinarily included in the general service as private hospitals for a higher price. It includes not only board and room, but nursing and medical attention, most medicines and operations.

It need not be pointed out that $3.75 a day, or $26.25 a week, is a very small price for board and room alone in Washington.

A Washington citizen wrote a letter to the surgeon general of the United States Navy, asking by what authority Mr. Ickes, with his $15,000 a year, his private means and his complete innocence of naval status, was able to put himself away for treatment and "a rest" in the Naval hospital. The surgeon general replied the Legislation Appropriation Act provided for the detail of a naval medical officer in attendance on the congress.

If the act merely provides that a naval medical officer be in attendance on the congress, it obviously would be sheer fraud against the taxpayers to construe this to provide them with hospital service at $3.75 a day in an institution established for members of the naval service.

It is more obviously dishonest to construe so slender an act as authority for providing such service at this price for cabinet members who are by no stretch of the imagination members of congress.

Yet, by an extension of the law, this is the case. Mr. Ickes was not even required to get tattooed or to learn to say "Aye, aye, sir," instead of "Yes, yes sir," in saluting his chief.

He is not the only well-paid, non-service patient to receive valuable service from the navy at a price which would not even rent a furnished room on the third floor and buy meals at the greasy spoon in the ordinary civilian life of Washington.

The medical profession often has been accused of operating on a plan similar to that of the late Robin Hood, overcharging the rich patients to pass the benefit along to those who are unable to pay anything.

That is not a completely fair statement of the Robin Hood method. True, the doctors do find it necessary to overcharge the rich, but the benefits are shared not only by those who are unable to pay anything but also by those who come within the liberal interpretation of an act intended only to provide a young medical squirt to whip up hangover potions for the members of congress.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Some people don't appreciate how remarkable they are.

And Samuel Kayzer is one of them. That young man—he's 85—thinks it's bad business to let the folks know that he is, as age is figured, an old man. He's in business and he thinks the customers will figure a man who has lived 85 years is a little tired.

So the last thing Samuel said, saying goodbye with a friendly pat on the shoulder that almost knocked me down the hill he lives on, was: "If you can skip the age, you know—."

"Well, I didn't answer that, and I can't skip the age because I like to write about remarkable things and Samuel Kayzer is remarkable. There are lots of dramatic coaches in this town but I've never met any other who is 85 years old, looks a sturdy 60, and talks an aggressive 30.

Constitutionally, I dislike recipes for longevity. Like diets and cures for the blue. They are individual matters. Samuel Kayzer dismisses it with, "I just don't FEEL old," He also knows something about breathing. He picked that up—"oh, about 60 years ago," as he put it nonchalantly—and he has practiced it ever since. Takes a deep one, through the nostrils, and exhales it slowly through the mouth—with a noise like a subway train roaring down the track. Socially, of course, he omits the noise and, as far as I could tell, takes his ozone in the usual manner. He can keep up that sound effect for two minutes.

"Develops the chest," he commented, lighting a cigarette.

Kayzer, until recently, was on the Metro payroll. He had come to town, about eight years ago, at Howard Hughes's insistence that he should accept $1,000 a week for training Billie Dove for the talkies. He also, incidentally, took on Jean Harlow, a Hughes "discovery." Then Louis B. Mayer importuned him to work on the Metro stock company. To this he gave three days a week. Metro, like all others, has undergone a paroxysm of economy. It looked like a good chance for our young octogenarian to rest a bit.

At one time, back in New York, Kayzer was solacing and coaching a group of more or less famous people that included Dorothy Gatley, Fred Bickel, Lila Lee, Milton Sills, Agnes Ayres, Thomas Meighan, the writer Rex Beach, the songwriter Irving Berlin, and Beesie Love. Miss Gatley became Ann Harding. Mr. Bickel became Frederic March, and Miss Lee, remaining Lila Lee, became famous. Incidentally, she's back under the Kayzer wing to try a comeback.

"What makes actors," he insisted, "is the instinct to appreciate the moods, thoughts, feelings of others. A good woman can play a bad woman better than a bad woman, and vice versa, if she has that dramatic instinct. Edward G. Robinson, a very nice boy, sweet, gentle and mild, can play a gangster better than a real gangster—becuse he has that instinct. I believe poets, business geniuses, great warriors—and actors—are not made through mechanics or instruction. They're born with it. All an instructor can do is to try to guide it, bring it out, develop it."

Ashland Pianist Presents First Music Club Program

AMONG the affairs of interest in Mansfield, meetings of the Music Study club always gain a large following because of their cultural programs. Mansfield music lovers were entertained last night at the first meeting of the year by Miss Berenice Bicksler, Ashland pianist, who appeared at the dinner meeting held in the Mansfield-Leland hotel ballroom.

Following the dinner, which was served at long flower decorated tables, Miss Bicksler presented a program which included a Brahms sonata, a Ravel selection, two of the Rachmaninoff preludes, and two studies by Liszt.

Her encore was "The Cat and the Mouse," by Copeland. The program was one of delicacy and precision, attracting careful attention from the 75 guests.

During the brief business meeting which followed the dinner Mrs. K. E. Buhr, president, reviewed the officers of the organization and introduced Mrs. G. W. Hall, program chairman, who discussed the program for the year briefly.

The next meeting will be a classical program at the Women's Club at 8 p. m., Nov. 7. Mrs. R. F. Cox is the hostess. Those who will appear on the program are Mrs. Paul Williams, chairman, Mrs. Marie Marks Porterfield, Mrs. Carl Walker, Mrs. Joy Herbert, Miss Jane Weuthrick, and S. K. Jorgensen.

If you find the dirndl style particularly becoming to you or your daughter you'll want a black crepe, satin or velvet frock for dressy wear this winter.
